gineer Howell Reported to Have Told

News of the Situation.

KEY WEST, Feb. 26.—A newspaper dispatch boat has brought some alarming news here from Havana, which could not be sent by cable because of the rigid press censorship of the Spanish
military authorities.

The correspondent sending the news
says that Havana is in a state of great anxiety and very little will provoke an uprising against the United States by the Spaniards.

Americans in Havana fear an outbreak will occur.

The Spanish authorities realize the serious state of affairs.

When the Spanish steamer Montevideo arrived with 2,000 soldiers from Spain the members of the army heard for the first time of the accident to the Maine. They yelled "death to Americans."

The men at work rescuing bodies
from the wreck were compelled to listen to taunts and sneers.

In spite of the threats and commands of Blanco a big demonstration will be held on Sunday.

Weyler's adherents propose to be heard. They oppose autonomy and are growing in numbers.

It is believed that it is the beginning of a scheme to depose Blanco.

Consul General Lee is responsible for the statement that President McKinley
wanted to confer with him in Washington, but countermanded the order,
owing to the condition of affairs.

General Lee is not to confer with Senator Proctor, at Key West.

General Lee holds frequent conferences with the British consul general.
It is not improbable the latter would be asked to look after the interests of the United States in case serious complications arise.

The Spaniards are making great capital out of Senator Hanna's utterance,
the papers printing it in bold-faced types. Spaniards are parading it in public places.

It is the open talk of Spaniards that the United States will not break relations with Spain even if it is found that the Maine was blown up.

They say that the United States can be satisfied by the payment of money,
and some of them go so far as to set the price at $10,000,000.

General Lee had a long conversation with the members of the court of inquiry on board the Fern. Among the most important witnesses examined were Chief Engineer Howell of the Maine, Ensign Powelson, Paymaster
Ray and Surgeon Henneberger.

Howell's testimony was of great importance. He said he was satisfied the explosion was due to internal cause.

Sensational evidence is said to have been given by Diver Morgan and to show that the Maine was blown up by outside agency. Morgan's report is said to have been verified by other divers.

DIVER MORGAN'S VIEW.

Another Correspondent Hears He Said
the Maine Was Blown Up by an Outside Agency—Other Divers Confirmed
It—Won't Raise the Vessel.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—The Mail and Express prints a dispatch, dated Havana, from a correspondent, saying:

"While, of course, the members of the court will not talk for publication I am informed on the highest authority that the evidence of Diver Morgan as to the condition of the Maine, shows

almost beyond the possibility of a doubt,
in the opinion of my informant, that the Maine was blown up by an outside agency.

"Furthermore Morgan's report was verified by the other American divers.

"It is believed a decision has been practically reached. The witnesses yet to be examined will hardly change the verdict.

"The court has decided against any attempt to raise the ruined battleship.
The members are convinced that it would be useless, as she could never be floated and the Spanish authorities here will be informed that if they wish the wreck removed from the harbor they must attend to the work themselves.
This decision gives a better idea of the terrible havoc wrought in the Maine
than columns of description could do.

"The Merritt Wrecking company, it was announced, wanted $2,000,000 to raise the wreck, after viewing the condition of the ship.

"The wreckers have turned their attention to saving the great guns.

"Twenty more unknown bodies of the crew have been recovered from the wreck by the divers. The bodies were frightfully burned and mangled and it may be impossible to ever identify some of them. Holzer, who made such a brave fight, has died in the hospital.

"All the wounded will leave here
Sunday on the Bache for Key West.
The physicians consider it safe to move them now."

LONG TAKES A REST.

He Places the Navy Department in the Hands of Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Secretary
Long has been under a heavy strain ever since he was awakened in the middle of the night a week ago last Tuesday, by the news of the loss of the Maine, and now that matters are at least for the time being in a quieter state, he has withdrawn from the navy department and gone away for a few days' rest, leaving Assistant Secretary Roosevelt to manage the department.

Word of the sailing of the cruiser Montgomery from Tampa to Key West has been received. The date of her departure for Havana, if she is to go at all, is conjectural. The ship went to Tampa instead of Key West on her return from San Domingo in order to facilitate the speedy return to his duties
in Washington of Captain Crowninshield, the chief of the navigation bureau, who saved a full day by the movement.

The Castine, the second of the United State warships on the South Atlantic station, has arrived at Barbadoes, where she joined the Cincinnati. It may be that the Castine will go to Martinique
to be docked, as she is in need of cleaning after her tropical service.

Since so much depends upon the report of the court of inquiry it may be interesting to note that so far Secretary Long himself does not know when to expect this important document, up to this time having heard nothing from any of the members on this point.

SPAIN'S OFFICIAL DENIAL.

The Spanish Charge Declares There Is No Mine in Havana Harbor.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—In view of the widely published report that the harbor of Havana contains a system of submarine mines, a statement around which has centered the chief public interest in connection with the disaster to
the battleship Maine, Senor Du Bose, Spanish charge d'affaires at Washington, has made the following statement,
which, coming from such authority,
may be considered as an official denial:

"I wish to state on my own official knowledge that no mine exists inside or outside of Havana harbor, nor is there any submarine defense of any kind. The report is so absolutely false and ridiculous that it could only have originated in the minds of those persons anxious to incite the evil passions of both nations
for their own miserable ends. I consider the very suggestion of such a thing
an insult to Spain."

NAVAL MILITIA DELEGATION.

In Washington Urging a Torpedo Fleet
For the State Tars.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—A delegation
from the naval militia association of the United States has made a visit to the navy department. The visit, however, was not in response to any request sent out by the navy department,
as has been represented, but was simply
preliminary to a visit to the capitol,
where they are to be given a hearing by
the naval committee on the Barber bill
to further increase the naval establishment of the United States by the construction of 30 torpedo boats, designed
principally for the use of the militia.

The boats provided for in the bill are to be of about 150 tons displacement, to have a speed of not less than 25 knots
and are to cost, including armament,
not exceeding $2,500,000. Six of the boats, the bill provides, are to be built
on the Pacific coast. When completed
they are to be stationed at the principal
ports at which naval militia organizations exist and are to be manned by
skeleton crews from the United States
naval establishment ready for the full
complement of officers and men to be filled out on the militia when called
out on other occasions.

CUBA MAY BE SEIZED.

Indemnity For Loss of Maine
Likely to Be Demanded.

SPAIN MAY REFUSE, THEN WAR.

A Member of the Cabinet Virtually Ad-
mits That His Colleagues Do Not Hold
to the Accident Theory—Precedents For Vigorous Action.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Although it
is given out that nothing definite occurred at the cabinet meeting regarding the Maine disaster, one member of the cabinet was asked if the administration still held to the view unanimously expressed by all the members of the cabinet after last week's meeting—that
the Maine disaster was due to accident.

"Yes," he answered, but with some
hesitation, "officially."

This intimation that the cabinet and
the president himself are at last convinced that the Maine was destroyed by
an external explosion, while officially
adhering to the internal accident theory,
was corroborated later from other sources.

It is believed to mean that the president has received secret information.
The cabinet is said to have discussed
demanding indemnity from Spain.

It is believed that this will be rejected
by Spain and that Cuba will be seized
to insure payment, which will precipitate war.

There are a large number of precedents which will aid the authorities in shaping their action in this direction
when the facts are fully established.
While none of the cases show the fearful loss of life sustained by the Maine
explosion, yet they include many instances in which the United States has
adopted energetic measures to redress
the killing of American citizens in foreign countries. In a general way these methods of redress have included demands for indemnity, proclamations excluding the warships of the offending
nations from our harbors, display of
force, non-intercourse, withdrawal of
our minister, reprisal and blockade.
Some of these steps border very closely
on war, although they are regarded as
the movements just preliminary to actual hostilities and as amounting to a threat that force will follow if repa-
ration is not made.

In 1855, by order of President Lopez,
the United States ship Water Witch
was fired upon while surveying the entrance to a river in Paraguay, killing
one man and wounding others. Congress authorized the president to use the necessary force to secure reparation. A fleet of 19 vessels, 25 guns, 2,500 men,
civilian plenipotentiaries and others
made a demonstration and Paraguay
disavowed the act and paid $10,000 indemnity.

When the British ship Leopard fired
on the United States ship Chsapeake
in time of peace for refusing to turn over British deserters and the commander was wounded and three were killed and others wounded, President
Madison speedily issued a proclamation
excluding from American ports all British warships. He also caused energetic protests and demands to be presented at London. The British authorities promptly disavowed the action, recalled the admiral and, without request,
tendered indemnity in sufficient to support the wives and families of all those
who had been killed and wounded.

In a later case the American ship Pro-
metheus, in the harbor of Greytown, declined to pay excessive port charges imposed by the king of the Mosquito
country, then under a British protector-
ate. The king called on the British warship Express to sustain his demands, and the Express promptly sent
a broadside into the Prometheus. There were no persons killed, but the United States made a prompt demand for reparation. The British government gave
this in the fullest manner and without
question, disavowing the act and condemning the officer of the Express.

Displays of force were resorted to by
the United States, in 1852, against Japan, and in 1858, against Java, for mistreatment of Americans and were successful.

In 1815 seven Americans were killed
and about 60 were wounded in the British prison at Dartmoor, being killed by guards in a clamor for rations. The United States protested and the British government complied by an indemnity
for the support of the families of those killed and wounded.

There are quite a number of recent
cases, the latest being that of the German occupation of Kiaochow for the outrages committed by Chinese on German missionaries.

The principle of money indemnity
for the killing of foreigners has been recognized in several recent cases in
the United States. One of these was
the killing of Italians at New Orleans
by a mob. Similar action was taken in indemnifying China for her subjects
killed at Rock Springs. In the case of the Virginias, a case against Spain, a large money indemnity was paid. Demands by the United States are now
pending against Turkey for the burning
of American missionary property in Turkey during the Armenian outbreak.
There are many individual claims
against Spain, including the Ruiz case

and that of Dr. Delegado, now pending.

President Buchanan adopted the procedure of reprisal in 1859 again Mexico,
who was charged at that time with assaulting to spoliation along the United States border, which was successful.

Non-intercourse with Great Britain
was one of the measures adopted in 1809, by what is known as the non-intercourse act, as a means of stopping associations which up to that time had involved many complications and harass-
ments. Embargos have also been resorted to as a measure of offense against
foreign nations, short of war, the purpose being to prevent the shipping of
supplies needed by the offending nation.

To Land Troops in Havana.

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 26.—Although the
officials of the company have not so
stated publicly, pretty much everybody
here understands that the Plant system
has completed arrangements for the
transportation of troops and munitions
of war to Havana on short notice and to
all strategic points on the coasts of Florida and at Mobile.

NAVAL INQUIRY ENTIRELY SECRET.

Kohlstaet Says the President Is Hiding
Nothing From the Public.

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—Mr. H. H. Kohl-staet, who is very close to Mr. McKinley, publishes in a local paper a card in which he says the president or Secretary Long are hiding nothing from the public. Says he:

"Every official connected with the investigation into the cause of the disaster
to the Maine, from Captain Sampson
down to the divers and linemen, is under oath of secrecy. For the time being
the divers are under naval discipline.
When above water each is attended by
a petty officer of the court of inquiry.
The Maine itself is secretly guarded
from unofficial approach.

"These facts account for the remarkable equanimity with which the American people read the daily sensations from Havana and the stock-jobbing forbiddings of war from New York and Washington.

"This much is absolutely true: President McKinley knows nothing about
the wreck of the Maine or the testimony
as to its cause that he has not made
public. He will not withhold any information when he gets it. He has not come to any conclusion as to whether
the disaster was accidental or designed,
or whether it was caused by an internal
or external explosion.

"When he receives the report of the court of inquiry he will know the facts,
which he will make public with his conclusions and policy."

DEFENSE OF NEW YORK.

Torpedoes and Mines Projected From Willet's Point to Fort Schuyler.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—At Willet's
Point precaution is being taken to make
the East river entrance to New York
invulnerable. A so-called skirmish line
of torpedoes is projected from the Wil-
let's Point shore, across the channel to Fort Schuyler. The torpedoes will be anchored so close together that it may be made impossible for a hostile vessel
to cross the line without being blown
up. The torpedoes will be connected
with electric wires and the engineers
have arranged to have batteries located
at each end of the line, so that in case
an apparatus was used by the enemy to
sever the connecting wires and break
the circuit, the torpedoes still could be
exploded from either end of the line.
The channel is already protected from the Willet's Point shore to the center of
the channel by two groups of submarine
mines.

At Fort Schuyler, directly opposite
Willet's Point, considerable engineering
work has been done. A torpedo magazine and experimenting gallery was recently completed.

SPAIN URGED TO STRIKE.

Excitable Madrid Papers Advising Pre-
cipitate Action—Great Excitement.

LONDON, Feb. 26.—According to a
special dispatch from Madrid reports
received there from the United States
to the effect that public opinion in the
latter country is becoming more excited
owing to the impression that the loss of
the Maine is not due to an accident, are
"restirring popular feeling here (in Madrid) and the conviction is increasing in ministerial circles that the worst
must be expected."

Continuing, the special dispatch says:
"The government has no choice if
the United States adopts a threatening
attitude, for the prospect of war is popular with all parties, and the more ex-
citable newspapers are already urging
the government to take measures to enable Spain to strike the first and decisive blow."

SPANISH CRUISER SAILS.

The Vizcaya Now on Her Way Direct
to Havana.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—The Spanish
cruiser Vizcaya has left for Havana.
The navyyard tug Nina, on guard off
Tompkinsville, was saluted by the
cruiser with three blasts of the whistle,
which the tug returned. The Nina and
the police boat Patrol accompanied the
cruiser down the bay.

The national standard of Spain floated
at halfmast from a small gaff on the main mast of the cruiser. The Viz-caya will proceed to Havana without stopping enroute.

TELEPHONE MAN HEARD

Gives Testimony Before Senate
Bribery Committee.

SAYS DICK PAID THE BILLS.

Bill Passed in the House to Provide For Regulation of Bakeshops—A Railroad
Passenger Transportation Bill Passed
the Senate—Other Measures.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 26.—The Ohio senate
bribery investigating committee has
met and examined Manager Ross of the
local telephone company with regard to
calls made and answered in connection
with Hanna headquarters at the Neil
House when he was a candidate for United States senator. The only new development was that Major Dick settled the bills. Names of conversationalists by telephone were not secured.

These bills were passed in the house:
Mr. Davis, providing for the better
inspection and regulation of bakeshops
and confectionaries.

Mr. Davis, defining the construction
of appliances for friction wheels.

Mr. Curdy, increasing the percentage
of pure fats in cream cheese from 10
to 20.

Mr. Jones, appropriating $1,144,600 to pay principal and interest on funded
and irreducible debt and expense of
sinking fund commission.

Mr. Sullivan, appropriating $3,566,947
for support of common schools.

Mr. McBroom's bill to make the Saturday afternoon half holiday law general was indefinitely postponed.

These bills were introduced in the senate:

Mr. Sullivan, providing a penalty for refusal of a railroad company to accept
a mileage book not fraudulently issued
or for exacting more than 2 cents a mile
for passenger transportation.

Senator Alexander, providing that
children of school age shall attend the
whole school year and shall appear two
days after notice by the truant officer.

Senator Cable, providing for an efficient stenographer for the supreme court
at $600 per annum.

Senator Finck, providing that infir-
mary directors may take possession of the property of inmates to pay for keeping.

Senator Shaefer—fixing the rate for
legal advertisements at 75 cents for the first and 40 cents per square for each subsequent insertion.

STUDENT VOLUNTEER CONVENTION.

Bishop Ninde and Other Prominent Leaders Make Addresses.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 26.—At the student
volunteer convention Bishop Ninde,
speaking of the "Money Problem in Christian Missions," said that most of
the wealth of the world was in the hands of Christians. Referring to the small gifts of the self-sacrificing poor,
he said that many of the charitable
works of this country are carried on by associated poverty.

Rev. A. Schanfler, D. D., vice president of the New York City Mission and Tract society; Rev. Dr. H. C. Mabie,
home secretary of the American Baptist Missionary union; Donald H.
Thornton, fraternal delegate from England; Mabel Leach, a missionary to Ceylon; Robert Wilder of the advisory board and F. S. Brockman, a young college student volunteer, spoke of various
phases of the missionary work.

A MURDEROUS REWARD.

Angelo Will Shoots the Members of His Benefactress' Family.

YOUNGSTOWN, Feb. 26.—Angelo Will,
a young Italian who last September
came to the house of Mrs. Peter Furando at Coalburg Blocks, near this city,
and being out of work was kept in food,
he doing odd jobs about the house as
part compensation, has attacked the
family.

Mrs. Furando's uncle, David Nante,
received three shots.

Her son Joe was shot in the groin.

The shooter then attacked Mrs. Furando herself, but was ward off by her sister-in-law, who received a bullet
wound in her arm. Will went to the grandmother's home and shot her in the right hip. The son Joe will hardly recover.

A Traveling Man Suicides.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 26.—Albert A. Henry,
traveling agent for a Philadelphia cold
storage concern, has jumped from the Eads bridge and was drowned in the Mississippi. In his overcoat, left on the bridge, was a memorandum book, in
which were these words: "Albert A.
Henry, 1311 North Forty-first street,
Philadelphia. Have a wife and child.
Am crazy and want to die."

Central American War Inevitable.

PANAMA, Feb. 26.—Advices received
from Costa Rica state that at a recent
banquet President Iglesias, in a speech,
said that the situation between Costa Rica and Nicaragua was such now that
war is inevitable.

A Railroad Man Dying.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 26.—Mr. W. F.
Walker, freight traffic manager of the Chesapeake and Ohio railway, is dying
at the St. Nicholas from a stroke of paralysis.

for their own miserable ends. I consider the very suggestion of such a thing
an insult to Spain."

NAVAL MILITIA DELEGATION.

In Washington Urging a Torpedo Fleet
For the State Tars.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—A delegation
from the naval militia association of
the United States has made a visit to
the navy department. The visit, however, was not in response to any request sent out by the navy department,
as has been represented, but was simply
preliminary to a visit to the capitol,
where they are to be given a hearing by
the naval committee on the Barber bill
to further increase the naval establishment of the United States by the construction of 20 torpedo boats, designed
principally for the use of the militia.

The boats provided for in the bill are
to be of about 150 tons displacement,
and are to cost, including armament,
not exceeding $2,500,000. Six of the
boats, the bill provides, are to be built
on the Pacific coast. When completed
they are to be stationed at the principal
ports at which naval militia organizations exist and are to be manned by
skeleton crews from the United States
naval establishment ready for the full
complement of officers and men to be
filled out on the militia when called
out on other occasion arises.

Likely to Be Demanded.

SPAIN MAY REFUSE, THEN WAR.

A Member of the Cabinet Virtually Ad-
mits That His Colleagues Do Not Hold
to the Accident Theory—Precedents For Vigorous Action.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Although it
is given out that nothing definite occurred at the cabinet meeting regarding the Maine disaster, one member of
the cabinet was asked if the administration still held to the view unanimously
expressed by all the members of the
cabinet after last week's meeting—that
the Maine disaster was due to accident.

"Yes," he answered, but with some
hesitation, "officially."

This intimation that the cabinet and
the president himself are at last convinced that the Maine was destroyed by
an external explosion, while officially
adhering to the internal accident theory,
was corroborated later from other
sources.

It is believed to mean that the president has received secret information.

The cabinet is said to have discussed
demanding indemnity from Spain.

It is believed that this will be rejected
by Spain and that Cuba will be seized
to insure payment, which will precipi-
tate war.

There are a large number of preced-
ents which will aid the authorities in
shaping their action in this direction
when the facts are fully established.
While none of the cases show the fear-
ful loss of life sustained by the Maine
explosion, yet they include many instances in which the United States has
adopted energetic measures to redress
the killing of American citizens in foreign countries. In a general way these
methods of redress have included demands for indemnity, proclamations excluding the warships of the offending
nations from our harbors, display of
force, non-intercourse, withdrawal of
our minister, reprisal and blockade.

Some of these steps border very closely
on war, although they are regarded as
the movements just preliminary to actual hostilities and as amounting to a
threat that force will follow if repa-
ration is not made.

the United States ship Water Witch
was fired upon while surveying the entrance to a river in Paraguay, killing
one man and wounding others. Congress authorized the president to use the
necessary force to secure reparation. A
fleet of 19 vessels, 25 guns, 2,500 men,
civilian plenipotentiaries and others
made a demonstration and Paraguay
disavowed the act and paid $10,000 indemnities.

When the British ship Leopard fired
on the United States ship Chesapeake
in time of peace for refusing to turn
over British deserters and the commander was wounded and three were
killed and others wounded, President
Madison speedily issued a proclamation
excluding from American ports all
British warships. He also caused energetic protests and demands to be presented at London. The British authorities promptly disavowed the action, re-
called the admiral and, without request,
tendered indemnity in sufficient to sup-
port the wives and families of all those
who had been killed and wounded.

In a later case the American ship Pro-
metheus, in the harbor of Greytown, declined to pay excessive port charges im-
posed by the king of the Mosquito
country, then under a British protector-
ate. The king called on the British
warship Express to sustain his demands, and the Express promptly sent
a broadside into the Prometheus. There were no persons killed, but the United States made a prompt demand for re-
paration. The British government gave
this in the fullest manner and without
question, disavowing the act and con-
demning the officer of the Express.

Displays of force were resorted to by
the United States, in 1852, against Japan, and in 1858, against Java, for
mistreatment of Americans and were
successful.

In 1815 seven Americans were killed
and about 60 were wounded in the British prison at Dartmoor, being killed by guards in a clamor for rations. The United States protested and the British
government complied by an indemnity
for the support of the families of those
killed and wounded.

There are quite a number of recent
cases, the latest being that of the German occupation of Kiao-Chau for the outrages committed by Chinese on Ger-
man missionaries.

The principle of money indemnity
for the killing of foreigners has been
recognized in several recent cases in
the United States. One of these was
the killing of Italians at New Orleans
by a mob. Similar action was taken in
indemnifying China for her subjects
killed at Rock Springs. In the case of
the Virginias, a case against Spain, a
large money indemnity was paid. Demands by the United States are now
pending against Turkey for the burning
of American missionary property in Turkey during the Armenian outbreak.
There are many individual claims
against Spain, including the Ruiz case

and that of Dr. Delegado, now pending.

President Buchanan adopted the procedure of reprisal in 1859 against Mexico,
who was charged at that time with as-
saulting to spoliation along the United States border, which was successful.

Non-intercourse with Great Britain
was one of the measures adopted in 1809, by what is known as the non-inter-
course act, as a means of stopping associations which up to that time had involved many complications and harass-
ments. Embargos have also been re-
sorted to as a measure of offense against
foreign nations, short of war, the purpose being to prevent the shipping of
supplies needed by the offending nation.

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 26.—Although the
officials of the company have not so
stated publicly, pretty much everybody
here understands that the Plant system
has completed arrangements for the
transportation of troops and munitions
of war to Havana on short notice and to
all strategic points on the coasts of Florida and at Mobile.

NAVAL INQUIRY ENTIRELY SECRET.

Kohlsmat Says the President Is Hiding
Nothing From the Public.

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—Mr. H. H. Kohl-
smat, who is very close to Mr. McKinley, publishes in a local paper a card in
which he says the president or Secretary Long are hiding nothing from the
public. Says he:

"Every official connected with the investigation into the cause of the disaster
to the Maine, from Captain Sampson
down to the divers and linemen, is under oath of secrecy. For the time being
the divers are under naval discipline.
When above water each is attended by
a petty officer of the court of inquiry.
The Maine itself is secretly guarded
from unofficial approach.

"These facts account for the remarkable equanimity with which the American
people read the daily sensations from Havana and the stock-jobbing forbod-ings of war from New York and Washington.

"This much is absolutely true: President McKinley knows nothing about
the wreck of the Maine or the testimony
public. He will not withhold any information when he gets it. He has not
come to any conclusion as to whether
the disaster was accidental or designed,
or whether it was caused by an internal
or external explosion.

"When he receives the report of the
court of inquiry he will know the facts,
which he will make public with his

DEFENSE OF NEW YORK.

Torpedoes and Mines Projected From Willet's Point to Fort Schuyler.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—At Willet's
Point precaution is being taken to make
the East river entrance to New York
invulnerable. A so-called skirmish line
of torpedoes is projected from the Wil-
let's Point shore, across the channel to Fort Schuyler. The torpedoes will be
anchored so close together that it may
be made impossible for a hostile vessel
to cross the line without being blown
up. The torpedoes will be connected
with electric wires and the engineers
have arranged to have batteries located
at each end of the line, so that in case
an apparatus was used by the enemy to
sever the connecting wires and break
the circuit, the torpedoes still could be
exploded from either end of the line.
The channel is already protected from
the Willet's Point shore to the center of
the channel by two groups of submarine
mines.

At Fort Schuyler, directly opposite
Willet's Point, considerable engineering
work has been done. A torpedo maga-
recently completed.

cipitate Action—Great Excitement.

LONDON, Feb. 26.—According to a
special dispatch from Madrid reports
received there from the United States
to the effect that public opinion in the
latter country is becoming more excited
owing to the impression that the loss of
the Maine is not due to an accident, are
"restirring popular feeling here (in Madrid) and the conviction is increasing in ministerial circles that the worst
must be expected."

Continuing, the special dispatch says:
"The government has no choice if
the United States adopts a threatening
attitude, for the prospect of war is popular with all parties, and the more ex-
citable newspapers are already urging
the government to take measures to enable Spain to strike the first and decisive blow."

The Vizcaya Now on Her Way Direct
to Havana.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—The Spanish
cruiser Vizcaya has left for Havana.
The navyyard tug Nina, on guard off
Tompkinsville, was saluted by the
cruiser with three blasts of the whistle,
which the tug returned. The Nina and
the police boat Patrol accompanied the
cruiser down the bay.

at halfmast from a small gaff on the
main mast of the cruiser. The Viz-
caya will proceed to Havana without
stopping enroute.

Gives Testimony Before Senate
Bribery Committee.

SAYS DICK PAID THE BILLS.

Bill Passed in the House to Provide For Regulation of Bakeshops—A Railroad
Passenger Transportation Bill Passed
the Senate—Other Measures.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 26.—The Ohio senate
bribery investigating committee has
met and examined Manager Ross of the
local telephone company with regard to
with Hanna headquarters at the Neil
House when he was a candidate for United States senator. The only new development was that Major Dick settled the bills. Names of conversationalists by telephone were not secured.

These bills were passed in the house:
Mr. Davis, providing for the better
inspection and regulation of bakeshops
and confectionaries.

Mr. Davis, defining the construction
of appliances for friction wheels.

Mr. Curdy, increasing the percentage
of pure fats in cream cheese from 10
to 20.

Mr. Jones, appropriating $1,144,600 to
pay principal and interest on funded
and irreducible debt and expense of
sinking fund commission.

Mr. Sullivan, appropriating $3,566,947
for support of common schools.

Mr. McBroom's bill to make the Saturday afternoon half holiday law general was indefinitely postponed.

These bills were introduced in the
senate:

Mr. Sullivan, providing a penalty for
refusal of a railroad company to accept
a mileage book not fraudulently issued
or for exacting more than 2 cents a mile
for passenger transportation.

children of school age shall attend the
whole school year and shall appear two
days after notice by the truant officer.

Senator Cable, providing for an efficient stenographer for the supreme court
at $600 per annum.

Senator Finck, providing that infir-
mary directors may take possession of the
property of inmates to pay for keeping.

Senator Shaefer—fixing the rate for
legal advertisements at 75 cents for the first and 40 cents per square for each
subsequent insertion.

STUDENT VOLUNTEER CONVENTION.

Leaders Make Addresses.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 26.—At the student
volunteer convention Bishop Ninde,
speaking of the "Money Problem in Christian Missions," said that most of
the wealth of the world was in the hands of Christians. Referring to the
small gifts of the self-sacrificing poor,
he said that many of the charitable
works of this country are carried on by
associated poverty.

Rev. A. Schanfler, D. D., vice president of the New York City Mission and
Tract society; Rev. Dr. H. C. Mabie,
home secretary of the American Baptist Missionary union; Donald H.
Thornton, fraternal delegate from England; Mabel Leach, a missionary to Ceylon; Robert Wilder of the advisory board and F. S. Brockman, a young college student volunteer, spoke of various
phases of the missionary work.

A MURDEROUS REWARD.

Angelo Will Shoots the Members of His Benefactress' Family.

YOUNGSTOWN, Feb. 26.—Angelo Will,
a young Italian who last September
came to the house of Mrs. Peter Fur-
ando at Coalburg Blocks, near this city,
and being out of work was kept in food,
he doing odd jobs about the house as
part compensation, has attacked the
family.

Mrs. Furando's uncle, David Nante,
received three shots.

Her son Joe was shot in the groin.

The shooter then attacked Mrs. Furando herself, but was warded off by her sister-in-law, who received a bullet
wound in her arm. Will went to the
grandmother's home and shot her in the right hip. The son Joe will hardly recover.

A Traveling Man Suicides.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 26.—Albert A. Henry,
traveling agent for a Philadelphia cold
storage concern, has jumped from the
Mississippi. In his overcoat, left on the
bridge, was a memorandum book, in
which were these words: "Albert A.
Henry, 1311 North Forty-first street,
Philadelphia. Have a wife and child.

Central American War Inevitable.

PANAMA, Feb. 26.—Advices received
from Costa Rica state that at a recent
banquet President Iglesias, in a speech,
said that the situation between Costa
Rica and Nicaragua was such now that
war is inevitable.

A Railroad Man Dying.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 26.—Mr. W. P.
Walker, freight traffic manager of the Chesapeake and Ohio railway, is dying
at the St. Nicholas from a stroke of paralysis.

HE WANTED HIS MONEY

George Washington Was After the Balance

DUE HIM ON SOME LAND

An Old Letter Written For the Father of His Country, More Than a Hundred Years Ago, Shows That He Was a Man of Business and Needed the Cash.

LISBON, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—The original letter, of which the following is a copy, is in possession of B. T. Shreve, telegraph operator at Bayard, Ohio, and is highly prized by its owner, the letter being addressed to a relative a little over one hundred years ago. It is in an excellent state of preservation, and is signed by James Ross, who one hundred years ago, was one of the leading attorneys of Pittsburg.

Col. Israel Shreve, an officer of the revolutionary war, the person to whom the letter was addressed, purchased a large tract of land in Fayette county, Pa., from General Washington, which had not been fully paid for. This letter with a large collection of other rare old papers, was in the possession of Ridgeway Shreve, a grand nephew of Col. Israel Shreve, who died a few years ago near Salem. A few of these old papers, correspondence between Colonel Shreve and General Washington, also Colonel Shreve's sword and journal, are now owned by Clinton French, Cleveland.

The letter is as follows:

PITTSBURG, 3d August, 1797.

DEAR SIR:

I have written to you by this day's post, but, lest the letter should be delayed by the road, I have thought it best by Mr. Mason to inform in another letter that Genl. Washington has sent to me your judgment bond, with orders to get the money as soon as possible. He is much out of temper at his disappointment, and will accept nothing less than the whole money due, which is £800 and one year's interest upon £3,000, making altogether £780, with interest from the first of June last. My instructions are so pointed that I cannot give long indulgence, and that only at my own risk. You will then use all possible exertion to have the money here at or before our court in the first week in September, as that is the longest time I can possibly delay the process for the recovery of the money.

I am very respectfully,

Dear Sir,

Your most obedient,
humble servant,

JAMES ROSS.

Colo. Israel Shreve.

NARROW ESCAPE FOR QUEEN CITY.

Nitro-Glycerine Cans Hobbed Around It in the Waves.

The big steamer Queen City, on its last trip while passing St. Mary's, was the occasion of a scare which the citizens of St. Mary's will not forget in a hurry.

A nitro-glycerine handler was coming down the Ohio with a skiff load, 650 quarts of glycerine, when the Queen City passed just before the skiff landed at St. Mary's. The waves of the big boat swerved the skiff about, and finally upset it, scattering the cans of the deadly explosive broadcast over the water. Each can bobbed up and down, threatening every second to strike the bank or some floating debris. The people dodged behind the banks and yelled: "Look out! there she goes!" Luckily, none of the cans was exploded by the waves, and when the waters calmed down the glycerine man went out in a skiff and picked them all up.

Some Good Attractions.

John Griffith and his excellent company will present "Faust" at the Grand tonight. It is one of the best attractions of the season.

Joseph Murphy comes to the Grand Monday evening in "Kerry Gow," a piece which has made him famous the country over.

Tuesday evening "Eight Bells," one of the best pantomime and acrobatic performances on the road. The costumes are appropriate, the scenery unique and the dialogue reduced to a minimum.

A Sunday Battle.

The owners of chickens more or less noted for their fighting qualities, met in a Sixth street house, last evening, and arranged to pit their fowls two weeks from tomorrow. The fighting ground is known only to the owners of the chickens.

Good Qualifications.

A Pittsburg paper last evening contains an advertisement in the situations wanted column from a Liverpool youth. The advertisement says the advertiser is honest and good looking.

TRADE BOOMING THIS MONTH.

Dun Reports the Largest Amount For Any Previous Year.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade, issued today, says: Foreign possibilities have much effected speculation and caused hesitation in some large business operations, possibly accounting in part for a check in the rapid advance of wheat, but industrial production continues larger than ever, a few more works being added to the active list, with a decrease in the number of hands on strike, and renewed evidence that the volume of business is larger than in February of any previous year.

Wheat continued its progress upward until $1.08½ was reached on Monday, but declined 3½ cents later, as if there were fears that Spain would somehow stop British vessels from taking wheat across the water. Any yielding based on foreign possibilities deserves little notice, but the price has advanced about 10 cents since Chicago speculators last took occasion to shake off weak followers and the opportunity for reaction was inviting. There is no abating of foreign demand.

Corn exports for the week were 14.5 per cent less than last year, but the cash price declined but slightly.

The woolen manufacture meets many cancellations, especially in goods sold early without definite price, but is doing more than ever at this season, though new business in the higher grades of worsted and woolsens is not particularly encouraging. Sales of wool are slow, with weakness in clothing, amounting to about 2 cents decline from the highest point, indicating that mills have at present abundant stocks, but some are selling foreign wool in order to take supplies of other qualities. In goods of medium and low grades the demand continues large.

The iron manufacturer has more demand for products and slightly better prices for Bessemer pig, which has advanced to $10.40 at Pittsburg, with Grey forge unchanged there, local coke strong at Chicago in spite of some southern weakness and eastern anthracite really unchanged, though quotations are a shade lower. No finished products have changed in price and all are strong in demand, excepting bar, which a combination has failed to advance.

Failures for the week have been 233 in the United States, against 296 last year, and 30 in Canada, against 50 last year.

MARTIN SAID NOT TO SHOOT.

Sheriff of Carbon County Told of an Attack on a Breaker.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Feb. 26.—In consequence of the illness of Juror A. W. Washburn, who had an attack of stomach trouble, the Martin trial was delayed for a time.

Different witnesses, one a minister, testified to rioting by the strikers, one man being severely wounded.

Milton Selzer, the sheriff of Carbon county, said: "Hearing the strikers were going to make an attack on Cox's breaker at Beaver Meadow, I drove over there and told my deputies to follow. When I reached Beaver Meadow, I found Sheriff Martin and his deputies there. The strikers were approaching and, as the breaker is just inside the Carbon county line, it was my duty to protect it. Accordingly I called on Sheriff Martin and his men to act with me and they did. There were 500 or 600 strikers and they charged upon the breaker. We drove them back, using our guns to push them along, but some managed to get through our lines and into the breaker. We drove them out. As the strikers dispersed, one man fired a shot at us from a revolver."

After an objection by the commonwealth, he was allowed to tell what Sheriff Martin's instructions were. He said: "Martin told them to be very careful, not to shoot anybody, that we did not intend to do any harm, unless it was necessary to save our lives."

A $1,000,000 FIRE.

Tobacco Property Burned In Louisville. Three Men Injured.

LOUISVILLE, Feb. 26.—Picking, drying and steaming warehouses of the National Tobacco company, situated at Twenty-fourth and Main streets, have been totally destroyed by fire. The loss will amount to $1,000,000, fully covered by insurance.

These men were injured: George Tishendorf, foreman picking department; back injured and severe injuries about the head and chest.

William Semple, picker; skull fractured.

John Packham, both legs broken and internally injured.

Debated Corbett's Case.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Hon. Henry W. Corbett's right to a seat in the senate from Oregon was under consideration by the senate for five hours. Mr. Spooner (Wis.), in a few words, concluded the speech which he began the day before in favor of Mr. Corbett, and was followed by other senators on the case.

New Adjutant General.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—The president has appointed Colonel Henry C. Corbin adjutant general of the army to succeed General Samuel Brock, retired on account of age. Colonel Henry C. Corbin is a native of Ohio.

Proctor Leaves For Havana.

KEY WEST, Feb. 26.—Senator Proctor has left on the steamer Olivette for Havana. He says he goes to Havana merely on a pleasure trip and for his health.

The Weather.

Generally fair, probably light local snow on the lakes; light to fresh west-snow winds.

HER DUAL EXISTENCE

BITTEN BY A RATTLESNAKE, CARRIE PONDER'S NATURE WAS CHANGED.

Her Eyes Shone Like a Serpent's and She Hissed—Became Crafty and Sly—Predicted Her Death Just About Two Months Before the End Came.

Miss Carrie Ponder, 28 years of age, of excellent family, died at Rome, Ga., recently at exactly 10:50 a. m. Her death was caused by the bite of a rattlesnake received three years ago.

Surrounding her life since the rattlesnake buried its deadly fangs in her finger is the most marvelous story of a dual existence ever recorded.

Three years ago Miss Ponder was a handsome girl living in Walker county, Ga., at the foot of the Coputta mountains. She was in perfect health.

One day while working among flowers Miss Ponder felt a keen pain in the middle finger of her left hand. She was horrified to hear the peculiar hiss of a mountain rattler, the most venomous of snakes.

The wound was canterized and stimulants were poured down the girl until she was in a state of stupefaction. Her life was saved only to doom her to years of intense suffering.

The bloom faded from her cheeks, her step lost its elastic spring, and she began to grow thin and wan. Physicians, many of them distinguished in the profession, were called, but the girl's disease baffled every effort at diagnosis.

Her trouble assumed many of the characteristics of tuberculosis. Even in the first two years her family and the friends of the girl observed that she was at times apparently another person. She lost her frank and buoyant cordiality and became crafty and sly.

One year ago she came to Rome to live with a brother and to receive expert medical attention, and shortly afterward was confined to her bed. Then all the characteristics of a serpent became apparent in the girl. Her mind was unimpaired to the end save when she was dominated by that other terrible self.

At such times her tongue would dart out, a peculiar hissing noise came from her throat and the eyes assumed the beady, glittering appearance of a serpent's. Then every one feared to touch her.

One night a few weeks ago Miss Ponder suddenly sat up rigid and erect in bed. She gazed at those present for a moment, a terrible venomous light in her eyes, then, seizing the cover, the girl pulled it over her head tightly and fell back on the pillow. It was thought that she was dead, but such was not the case.

She resisted every effort to draw the quilt away from her and remained thus several hours. Now and then she raised the corner of the quilt and looked at those present, the eyes brilliant and sparkling with an awful light. When observed, she would quickly recover her head.

A few days ago the hands of a clock on the mantel stopped at exactly 10:50 o'clock, though the timepiece ticked on audibly. Morning and night since then at precisely 10:50 the clock's hands have stopped. Miss Ponder died at 10:50. This is vouched for by people of unquestioned integrity.

About two months ago one night a huge owl perched on the window wherein the sick woman lay. Its dismal hoot curdled the blood of those present. When the bird had been frightened away, Miss Ponder said, an unearthly light shining in her wan face, "Two months from now my soul will be released."—New York World.

YUKON DOG SLEDGING.

Sergeant Joyce Says Dogs Are Better Than Reindeer on That Route.

Sergeant Joyce of the Klondike police arrived at Vancouver, B. C., recently direct from Big Salmon, Yukon, as a messenger from Governor Walsh of the Klondike. He bears sealed dispatches from Governor Walsh to the Canadian government touching the international customs regulations and boundary questions.

Joyce says the trails are good and 75 miles a day can be made with 250 pounds on a sledge. He says that in spite of reports to the contrary no man is allowed to cross the Canadian border unless he has provisions for one year, and that many Americans and Canadians have already been turned back by the police.

Joyce said he passed hundreds of men traveling to Lake Bennett and making good progress. He says dogs alone can be used, and the three cars of reindeer arriving on the coast from Lapland are of no use, being too big and clumsy.—New York Sun.

Long Walk After Chickens.

Bailiff Hawley, who served a writ of attachment on some farm products a few days since, there being a number of chickens levied upon among other things, is said to have returned a bill of mileage for 100 miles. He claims—and eyewitnesses say he is right—that there were 50 chickens in the bunch and that he had to walk two miles to catch each chicken. It isn't probable that he will be allowed his claim, although it is admitted that he is justly entitled to it.—Keokuk Constitution.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic for the Week Beginning Feb. 27. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Getting close to Christ.—Luke x, 38-42; John xvii, 20-23.

The home scenes described in the life of Christ are few in number, but interesting in character. None has been of more interest than this one recorded by Luke, where Jesus and His disciples came to the home of Martha and Mary at Bethany. Martha, probably being the older and the head of the house, began to concern herself with the entertainment of her guests and, as is so often the case with womankind under the circumstances, worked herself into a state of high nervous excitement. Mary, being of a quiet, spiritual disposition, preferred to sit close to Jesus at His feet to listen to the words that fell from His lips as He talked to His disciples. In this position Martha in her excitement chided Mary for her thoughtlessness and appealed to Christ Himself to bid Mary come and assist her, but Christ rebuked Martha for her overanxiety about the unimportant things of life and commended Mary for her absorbing interest in the highest welfare of her being. He thus teaches us that it is better to get close by Him and to stay close by Him than to be overinterested in and concerned about the things of life, which perish with the usage.

1. We can get close to Christ by studying His word. He is no longer upon earth in bodily form, that we can sit at His feet as Mary did and listen to His words of matchless wisdom, but His words have not all been lost to the world. Many of them have been recorded and preserved for our use today. We can still sit at His feet and listen to His words if we will only take the Bible and read and study it. It's wonderful how little we appreciate and how carelessly we use this blessed privilege of listening to the voice of Christ Himself.

2. We can get close to Christ in prayer. Not only can we read what Jesus has said, listen to His voice in the Scriptures, but we have the priceless privilege of talking to Him, communing with Him in prayer. This is a great blessing that we enjoy, and we should not fail to realize it. We should spend much time with Christ in prayer, holding soul to soul communion with Him, that our dispositions and our characters may become more and more like His.

The one aim of our lives should be to be more like Christ. The closer we keep to Him, in thought and word and deed, the more like Him we will become. It is His desire that we should be like Him, that He and we should be one, and one also with God. Let us therefore study thoroughly and repeatedly His word and imbibe His character and disposition, as manifested in it. Let us hold constantly sweet communion with Him in prayer, until we shall be transformed by the power of the Spirit into His very likeness.

Bible Readings.—Ps. cxxi, 1-8; Prov. xviii, 24; Luke viii, 35; John xv, 1-10; Gal. ii, 20; v, 19-26; Eph. iv, 32; Phil. i, 21-28; ii, 5; Col. iii, 16, 17.

To Those Who Do Not Help.

In many churches a few are left to do most of the work, while the rest of the members, who ought to have the same interest, either do nothing or are critics. There is no better way to keep all hands from mischief than to find some good for them to do. "Be Ye Also Ready."

Let us never act on anything as if we counted on the stability of the present order of things. Let us count on the coming of Christ. Let us train our children with this in view, lay all our plans with this in view. Let our conversation, our manner of life, be shaped by this prospect, and not by any false idea that the earth and the things that are therein are to continue. Like Noah, let us prepare for things not seen as yet; like Rahab, be ready for the coming of the conqueror and await in all manner of holy conversation the return of the captain of our salvation.—Lord Radstock.

Midnight Harmonies.

The quaint old English church poet George Herbert was walking to Salisbury one evening to join a musical party when he met a poor man with a poorer horse that had fallen under his load. They were both in distress, and Mr. Herbert pulled off his coat and helped the man to unload his horse. He then gave him some money and left him. At his arriving at Salisbury his friends wondered at his coming into their company so soiled and discomposed. He explained the cause, and when one remarked that he had disparaged himself by so dirty an employment he answered that the thought of what he had done would prove music to him at midnight and that the omission of it would have upbraided and made discord in his conscience. "For if I am bound to pray for all that be in distress so far as it is in my power I am to practice what I pray for, and let me tell you, I would not willingly pass one day of my life without comforting a sad soul or showing mercy, and I bless God for this occasion. These are the places in which to wake one's conscience to midnight music."

HE WANTED HIS MONEY

George Washington Was After the Balance

An Old Letter Written For the Father of His Country, More Than a Hundred Years Ago, Shows That He Was a Man of Business and Needed the Cash.

LISBON, Feb. 26.—[Special].—The original letter, of which the following is a copy, is in possession of B. T. Shreve, telegraph operator at Bayard, Ohio, and is highly prized by its owner, the letter being addressed to a relative a little over one hundred years ago. It is in an excellent state of preservation, and is signed by James Ross, who one hundred years ago, was one of the leading attorneys of Pittsburgh.

Col. Israel Shreve, an officer of the revolutionary war, the person to whom the letter was addressed, purchased a large tract of land in Fayette county, Pa., from General Washington, which had not been fully paid for. This letter with a large collection of other rare old papers, was in the possession of Ridgeway Shreve, a grand nephew of Col. Israel Shreve, who died a few years ago near Salem. A few of these old papers, correspondence between Colonel Shreve and General Washington, also Colonel Shreve's sword and journal, are now owned by Clinton French, Cleveland.

The letter is as follows:

PITTSBURG, 3d August, 1797.

DEAR SIR:

I have written to you by this day's post, but, lest the letter should be delayed by the road, I have thought it best by Mr. Mason to inform in another letter that Genl. Washington has sent to me your judgment bond, with orders to get the money as soon as possible. He is much out of temper at his disappointment, and will accept nothing less than the whole money due, which is £600 and one year's interest upon £3,000, making altogether £780, with interest from the first of June last. My instructions are so pointed that I cannot give long indulgence, and that only at my own risk. You will then use all possible exertion to have the money here at or before our court in the first week in September, as that is the longest time I can possibly delay the process for the recovery of the money.

I am very respectfully,

Dear Sir,

Your most obedient,
humble servant,

JAMES ROSS.

Colo. Israel Shreve.

NARROW ESCAPE FOR QUEEN CITY.

Nitro-Glycerine Cans Bobbed Around It In the Waves.

The big steamer Queen City, on its last trip while passing St. Mary's, was the occasion of a scare which the citizens of St. Mary's will not forget in a hurry.

A nitro-glycerine handler was coming down the Ohio with a skiff load, 650 quarts of glycerine, when the Queen City passed just before the skiff landed at St. Mary's. The waves of the big boat swerved the skiff about, and finally upset it, scattering the cans of the deadly explosive broadcast over the water. Each can bobbed up and down, threatening every second to strike the bank or some floating debris. The people dodged behind the banks and yelled: "Look out! there she goes!" Luckily, none of the cans was exploded by the waves, and when the waters calmed down the glycerine man went out in a skiff and picked them all up.

Some Good Attractions.

John Griffith and his excellent company will present "Faust" at the Grand tonight. It is one of the best attractions of the season.

Joseph Murphy comes to the Grand Monday evening in "Kerry Gow," a piece which has made him famous the country over.

A Sunday Battle.

The owners of chickens more or less noted for their fighting qualities, met in a Sixth street house, last evening, and arranged to pit their fowls two weeks from tomorrow. The fighting ground is known only to the owners of the chickens.

Good Qualifications.

A Pittsburgh paper last evening contains an advertisement in the situations wanted column from a Liverpool youth. The advertisement says the advertiser is honest and good looking.

TRADE BOOMING THIS MONTH.

Dun Reports the Largest Amount For Any Previous Year.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade, issued today, says: Foreign possibilities have much effected speculation and caused hesitation in some large business operations, possibly accounting in part for a check in the rapid advance of wheat, but industrial production continues larger than ever, a few more works being added to the active list, with a decrease in the number of hands on strike, and renewed evidence that the volume of business is larger than in February of any previous year.

Wheat continued its progress upward until $1.08 3/4 was reached on Monday, but declined 3 1/2 cents later, as if there were fears that Spain would some how stop British vessels from taking wheat across the water. Any yielding based on foreign possibilities deserves little notice, but the price has advanced about 10 cents since Chicago speculators last took occasion to shake off weak followers and the opportunity for reaction was inviting. There is no abating of foreign demand.

Corn exports for the week were 14.5 per cent less than last year, but the cash price declined but slightly.

The woolen manufacture meets many cancellations, especially in goods sold early without definite price, but is doing more than ever at this season, though new business in the higher grades of worsteds and woollens is not particularly encouraging. Sales of wool are slow, with weakness in clothing, amounting to about 2 cents decline from the highest point, indicating that mills have at present abundant stocks, but some are selling foreign wool in order to take supplies of other qualities. In goods of medium and low grades the demand continues large.

The iron manufacturer has more demand for products and slightly better prices for Bessemer pig, which has advanced to $10.40 at Pittsburgh, with Grey forge unchanged there, local coke strong at Chicago in spite of some southern weakness and eastern anthracite really unchanged, though quotations are a shade lower. No finished products have changed in price and all are strong in demand, excepting bar, which a combination has failed to advance.

Failures for the week have been 233 in the United States, against 296 last year, and 30 in Canada, against 50 last year.

MARTIN SAID NOT TO SHOOT.

Sheriff of Carbon County Told of an Attack on a Breaker.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Feb. 26.—In consequence of the illness of Juror A. W. Washburn, who had an attack of stomach trouble, the Martin trial was delayed for a time.

Different witnesses, one a minister, testified to rioting by the strikers, one man being severely wounded.

Milton Selzer, the sheriff of Carbon county, said: "Hearing the strikers were going to make an attack on Cox's breaker at Beaver Meadow, I drove over there and told my deputies to follow. When I reached Beaver Meadow, I found Sheriff Martin and his deputies there. The strikers were approaching and, as the breaker is just inside the Carbon county line, it was my duty to protect it. Accordingly I called on Sheriff Martin and his men to act with me and they did. There were 500 or 600 strikers and they charged upon the breaker. We drove them back, using our guns to push them along, but some managed to get through our lines and into the breaker. We drove them out. As the strikers dispersed, one man fired a shot at us from a revolver."

After an objection by the commonwealth, he was allowed to tell what Sheriff Martin's instructions were. He said: "Martin told them to be very careful, not to shoot anybody, that we did not intend to do any harm, unless it was necessary to save our lives."

A $1,000,000 FIRE.

Tobacco Property Burned In Louisville. Three Men Injured.

LOUISVILLE, Feb. 26.—Picking, drying and steaming warehouses of the National Tobacco company, situated at Twenty-fourth and Main streets, have been totally destroyed by fire. The loss will amount to $1,000,000, fully covered by insurance.

These men were injured:

George Tishendorf, foreman picking department; back injured and severe injuries about the head and chest.

William Semple, picker; skull fractured.

Debated Corbett's Case.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Hon. Henry W. Corbett's right to a seat in the senate from Oregon was under consideration by the senate for five hours. Mr. Spooner (Wis.), in a few words, concluded the speech which he began the day before in favor of Mr. Corbett, and was followed by other senators on the case.

New Adjutant General.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—The president has appointed Colonel Henry C. Corbin adjutant general of the army to succeed General Samuel Breck, retired on account of age. Colonel Henry C. Corbin is a native of Ohio.

Proctor Leaves For Havana.

KEY WEST, Feb. 26.—Senator Proctor has left on the steamer Olivette for Havana. He says he goes to Havana merely on a pleasure trip and for his health.

The Weather.

Generally clear, probably light local snow on the lakes; light to fresh westerly winds.

HER DUAL EXISTENCE

Her Eyes Shone Like a Serpent's and She Hissed—Became Crafty and Sly—Predicted Her Death Just About Two Months Before the End Came.

Miss Carrie Ponder, 28 years of age, of excellent family, died at Rome, Ga., recently at exactly 10:50 a. m. Her death was caused by the bite of a rattlesnake received three years ago.

Surrounding her life since the rattlesnake buried its deadly fangs in her finger is the most marvelous story of a dual existence ever recorded.

Three years ago Miss Ponder was a handsome girl living in Walker county, Ga., at the foot of the Coputta mountains. She was in perfect health.

One day while working among flowers Miss Ponder felt a keen pain in the middle finger of her left hand. She was horrified to hear the peculiar hiss of a mountain rattler, the most venomous of snakes.

The wound was canterized and stimulants were poured down the girl until she was in a state of stupefaction. Her life was saved only to doom her to years of intense suffering.

The bloom faded from her cheeks, her step lost its elastic spring, and she began to grow thin and wan. Physicians, many of them distinguished in the profession, were called, but the girl's disease baffled every effort at diagnosis.

Her trouble assumed many of the characteristics of tuberculosis. Even in the first two years her family and the friends of the girl observed that she was at times apparently another person. She lost her frank and buoyant cordiality and became crafty and sly.

One year ago she came to Rome to live with a brother and to receive expert medical attention, and shortly afterward was confined to her bed. Then all the characteristics of a serpent became apparent in the girl. Her mind was unimpaired to the end save when she was dominated by that other terrible self.

At such times her tongue would dart out, a peculiar hissing noise came from her throat and the eyes assumed the beady, glittering appearance of a serpent's. Then every one feared to touch her.

One night a few weeks ago Miss Ponder suddenly sat up rigid and erect in bed. She gazed at those present for a moment, a terrible venomous light in her eyes, then, seizing the cover, the girl pulled it over her head tightly and fell back on the pillow. It was thought that she was dead, but such was not the case.

She resisted every effort to draw the quilt away from her and remained thus several hours. Now and then she raised the corner of the quilt and looked at those present, the eyes brilliant and sparkling with an awful light. When observed, she would quickly recover her head.

A few days ago the hands of a clock on the mantel stopped at exactly 10:50 o'clock, though the timepiece ticked on audibly. Morning and night since then at precisely 10:50 the clock's hands have stopped. Miss Ponder died at 10:50. This is vouched for by people of unquestioned integrity.

About two months ago one night a huge owl perched on the window wherein the sick woman lay. Its dismal hoot curdled the blood of those present. When the bird had been frightened away, Miss Ponder said, an unearthly light shining in her wan face, "Two months from now my soul will be released."—New York World.

YUKON DOG SLEDGING.

Sergeant Joyce Says Dogs Are Better Than Reindeer on That Route.

Sergeant Joyce of the Klondike police arrived at Vancouver, B. C., recently direct from Big Salmon, Yukon, as a messenger from Governor Walsh of the Klondike. He bears sealed dispatches from Governor Walsh to the Canadian government touching the international customs regulations and boundary questions.

Joyce says the trails are good and 75 miles a day can be made with 250 pounds on a sledge. He says that in spite of reports to the contrary no man is allowed to cross the Canadian border unless he has provisions for one year, and that many Americans and Canadians have already been turned back by the police.

Joyce said he passed hundreds of men traveling to Lake Bennett and making good progress. He says dogs alone can be used, and the three cars of reindeer arriving on the coast from Lapland are of no use, being too big and clumsy.—New York Sun.

Long Walk After Chickens.

Bailiff Hawley, who served a writ of attachment on some farm products a few days since, there being a number of chickens levied upon among other things, is said to have returned a bill of mileage for 100 miles. He claims—and eyewitnesses say he is right—that there were 50 chickens in the bunch and that he had to walk two miles to catch each chicken. It isn't probable that he will be allowed his claim, although he admits that he is justly entitled to it.—Keokuk Constitution.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic for the Week Beginning Feb. 27. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Getting close to Christ.—Luke x, 38-42; John xvii, 20-23.

The home scenes described in the life of Christ are few in number, but interesting in character. None has been of more interest than this one recorded by Luke, where Jesus and His disciples came to the home of Martha and Mary at Bethany. Martha, probably being the older and the head of the house, began to concern herself with the entertainment of her guests and, as is so often the case with womankind under the circumstances, worked herself into a state of high nervous excitement. Mary, being of a quiet, spiritual disposition, preferred to sit close to Jesus at His feet to listen to the words that fell from His lips as He talked to His disciples. In this position Martha in her excitement rebuked Mary for her thoughtlessness and appealed to Christ Himself to bid Mary come and assist her, but Christ rebuked Martha for her overanxiety about the unimportant things of life and commended Mary for her absorbing interest in the highest welfare of her being. He thus teaches us that it is better to get close by Him and to stay close by Him than to be overinterested in and concerned about the things of life, which perish with the usage.

1. We can get close to Christ by studying His word. He is no longer upon earth in bodily form, that we can sit at His feet as Mary did and listen to His words of matchless wisdom, but His words have not all been lost to the world. Many of them have been recorded and preserved for our use today. We can still sit at His feet and listen to His words if we will only take the Bible and read and study it. It's wonderful how little we appreciate and how carelessly we use this blessed privilege of listening to the voice of Christ Himself.

2. We can get close to Christ in prayer. Not only can we read what Jesus has said, listen to His voice in the Scriptures, but we have the priceless privilege of talking to Him, communing with Him in prayer. This is a great blessing that we enjoy, and we should not fail to realize it. We should spend much time with Christ in prayer, holding soul to soul communion with Him, that our dispositions and our characters may become more and more like His.

The one aim of our lives should be to be more like Christ. The closer we keep to Him, in thought and word and deed, the more like Him we will become. It is His desire that we should be like Him, that He and we should be one, and one also with God. Let us therefore study thoroughly and repeatedly His word and imbibe His character and disposition, as manifested in it. Let us hold constantly sweet communion with Him in prayer, until we shall be transformed by the power of the Spirit into His very likeness.

Bible Readings.—Ps. cxxi, 1-8; Prov. xviii, 24; Luke xii, 35; John xv, 1-10; Gal. ii, 20; v. 19-26; Eph. iv, 32; Phil. i, 21-28; ii, 5; Col. iii, 16, 17.

To Those Who Do Not Help.

In many churches a few are left to do most of the work, while the rest of the members, who ought to have the same interest, either do nothing or are critics. There is no better way to keep all hands from mischief than to find some good for them to do. IT'S THE KILNMEN NOW

Who Are Causing Attention In Trenton

BECAUSE OF THE WAGE MATTER

Manufacturers and Men Are Working Hard to Reach a Conclusion, and Conferences Have Been Many and Long Drawn Out.

The wage situation at Trenton has been receiving some attention in the trade papers, and the Crockery Journal
of this week puts it in this interesting way:

"Some of the potters of Trenton have been working day and night this month.
They are the members of the two committees of manufacturers and operatives
who have been sitting for several weeks past, night after night, trying to straighten out the almost hopeless tangle of the wage question. To the credit of the committee of operatives
from the clay working branches it may be said that their discussion of the pros
and cons was fair and reasonable, and that in general it may be considered as practically settled that the clay branches
will go on from this time forward with satisfaction and comfort.

"The hitch has been mainly with the kilnmen—not, because they are more exacting than any other class of men, but because of the varying conditions upon which they figure their compensation. That it is a most vexing and trying problem the men on both sides are willing to admit, for, with the single exception of last Friday night,
they have been in session until one and two o'clock in the morning, taking up point after point and discussing it to the limit. The last proposition is to take a general average of all the kiln
prices now paid, and upon that strike a basis for a uniform scale; but whether or not this will reach an agreement before the last straw is piled on the camel's back it is very hard to say."

CLERKS AS OFFICERS.

The Union Elected a Full Force Last Night.

The clerks' union met last evening,
and after initiating three candidates,
elected the following officers:

President, Charles Bence; vice president, Miss Grace Ogilvie; first vice,
Miss Kate Kinsey; second vice, Miss
Anna McGinnis; treasurer, O. C.
Beymer; corresponding secretary, J. E.
Anderson; recording secretary, Miss Daisy Maple; guide, Miss Jennie Rowe;
sergeant-at-arms, J. H. West; delegates to Trades council, J. E. Anderson, O. C.

The Virginia and Lorena are due down tonight, and the regular Sunday boats, Keystone State, Kanawha and Ben Hur, will be up. All are making good time.

Captain Green, of the Bedford, has placed the contract for the machinery
for his new boat with a Portsmouth company. The cylinders of the boat are to be 14 inches in diameter and a six-foot stroke. The two boilers are 23 feet long and 43 inches in diameter, with 10 six-inch flues in each. The boat, it is thought, will be ready for the spring
trade.

Passed down—H. K. Bedford, Joseph
Walton, John W. Ailes, Princess, Stella Moren, Tom Lysle, Rescue, Pacific and Defender.

Passed up—Charles Brown and Dick Fulton.

Not Even a Janitor.

Not one arrest was made last night,
and the only occupant of the coop was an individual who was given a night's lodging. The man first called at the fire station and wanted to stay there,
but Chief Morley sent him below. The jail is now without a janitor, and much speculation is being made as to who will be the next one.

THE BOSTON DEPARTMENT STORE.

The Second Week of Our Annual Silk Sale

Begins Saturday morning. During the first five days of the sale many of the new choice things disappeared, so that we found it necessary to replenish the stock. The articles will be placed on the tables Saturday morning, and for the next five days will be offered at Special Sale prices. This is the chance of the season to buy new, nobby silks at low figures. REMNANTS OF SILKS accumulated from the first weeks selling will be closed out at Bargain Prices. In five days more the sale closes as advertised.

KITTIES IN A JUNKSHOP.

They Are Old Sewing Machines That Are Bought For $1.

"Got any kitties?"

The junk dealer looked startled, for the question betokened an intimate knowledge of the jargon of his kind.

"Why, yes, I guess so," he responded when he could get his breath. What the buyer meant was an old sewing machine which could be turned in to the sewing machine company as part payment on a new machine. The company allows $5 on an old machine, and sometimes the agent or canvasser allows $5
more out of his commission on the sale.

The public imagines that in some way these old machines are valuable to the company, but, in truth, they are of use only as arguments in forcing a sale.
In the standard makes of machines there is supposed to be absolutely no cut in prices, and the only way that a seeming reduction can be made is by taking in an old machine and allowing for it.
The company does this not for the sake
of getting the machine, but for the sake of making a trade. Once the old timer is in their possession it is broken up and sold to a junk dealer.

The companies know, of course, that a large number of the families who turn in old machines said to have been bought by them before the flood really come from the secondhand stores and cost only $1. At this rate the buyer gets an allowance of $10, which, deducting the $1, leaves net $9. If there does happen to be an old one in the possession of the family, the whole $10 is realized.—

Fishing With Shovels.

The greatest sport we have heard of in Parsons, S. D., recently is the catch of fish that Hubert Bares, Anton Fergen and some others recently made. They went to the Jim river, near Victor Ulrich's place, and in a slough which was formed last spring for the overflow
of the Jim river they cut a hole in the ice and with scoop shovels they took out over 250 pounds of fine fish. They said that they had found fish frozen fast
to the ice which, when held in their hands, revived and assumed their natural condition. It is said there are thousands of fish in the ponds and sloughs that were formed last spring by the overflowed river. Most of these will perish in a short time after the ice commences to freeze for want of water and air. There are no doubt many fine pickerel in some of the creek ponds.—Parsons (S. D.) Advance.

Horse of Gigantic Size.

John Graham, an Oliver township farmer, is the owner of the largest horse in this section of Ohio. The animal is 23½ hands high and weighs 2,300 pounds. His head is 44 inches long. The horse is too large for any kind of work on the farm, and Mr. Graham has been trying to dispose of him.
A few weeks ago a Cincinnati buyer went to Graham's place and contracted for the big horse. It was delivered to the railroad, but when it came to loading the horse he was too large to pass through the door of a stock car. Mr.
Graham was compelled to take the animal back home.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

IT'S THE KILNMEN NOW

Who Are Causing Attention In Trenton

BECAUSE OF THE WAGE MATTER

Manufacturers and Men Are Working Hard to Reach a Conclusion, and Conferences Have Been Many and Long Drawn Out.

The wage situation at Trenton has been receiving some attention in the trade papers, and the Crockery Journal of this week puts it in this interesting way:

"Some of the potters of Trenton have been working day and night this month. They are the members of the two committees of manufacturers and operatives who have been sitting for several weeks past, night after night, trying to straighten out the almost hopeless tangle of the wage question. To the credit of the committee of operatives from the clay working branches it may be said that their discussion of the pros and cons was fair and reasonable, and that in general it may be considered as practically settled that the clay branches will go on from this time forward with satisfaction and comfort.

The hitch has been mainly with the kilnmen—not, because they are more exacting than any other class of men, but because of the varying conditions upon which they figure their compensation. That it is a most vexing and trying problem the men on both sides are willing to admit, for, with the single exception of last Friday night, they have been in session until one and two o'clock in the morning, taking up point after point and discussing it to the limit. The last proposition is to take a general average of all the kiln prices now paid, and upon that strike a basis for a uniform scale; but whether or not this will reach an agreement before the last straw is piled on the camel's back it is very hard to say."

CLERKS AS OFFICERS.

The Union Elected a Full Force Last Night.

The clerks' union met last evening, and after initiating three candidates, elected the following officers:

President, Charles Bence; vice president, Miss Grace Ogilvie; first vice, Miss Kate Kinsey; second vice, Miss Anna McGinnis; treasurer, C. C. Beymer; corresponding secretary, J. E. Anderson; recording secretary, Miss Daisy Maple; guide, Miss Jennie Rowe; sergeant-at-arms, J. H. West; delegates to Trades council, J. E. Anderson, C. C. Beymer, J. H. West, R. G. Shenkel

On the River.

The river continues to fall, and the marks, as registered at the wharf at noon today, showed 12 feet.

The Virginia and Lorena are due down tonight, and the regular Sunday boats, Keystone State, Kanawha and Ben Hur, will be up. All are making good time.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., SATURDAY, FEB. 26.

If the general assembly can find time to do so sensible a thing as pass the new bill against gambling, the enforcement of the law will mean the end of games of chance in Ohio.

JUDGE NASH and General Grosvenor are pronounced candidates for the official shoes of Governor Bushnell. As both are close to Senator Hanna, it be readily seen that there is still room for a Foraker aspirant in the fight.

COMMON SENSE.

If ever the people of this great government stood in need of an extra supply of common sense, now is the time. Bluff and bluster are at a discount, and should not be allowed the ghost of a chance to occupy a position in the front rank. War is a direful and horrible feature, as will be fully attested by the veterans who fought throughout the rebellion. War with Spain should be the "place of last resort." If the destruction of the Maine was an accident, it is simply a lamentable, horrible calamity. If it was the act of sneaking enemies, and the perpetrators of the foul deed can be placed, no punishment will be too great to inflict upon them. If an enemy did the work, where rests the responsibility? Who did the infamous deed? The whole civilized world will cry out against and condemn, in no uncertain terms, the cowards who perpetrated such a foul act. Common sense says: "await the verdict of the investigating committee." The members thereof are of ripe experience, unquestioned nerve and courage, and they will, under the express orders of the United States government, probe the matter to the bottom, not thinking of consequences, but doing their plain duty like well disciplined soldiers, who simply obey orders and report to their official head. Wm. McKinley, the president of these United States, backed by officials who understand international law to a nicety, will DEMAND the very fullest reparation at the hands of the Spanish government, in case that government is in any manner responsible for the lives of 253 murdered seamen, gallant officers, sailors and marines; and Wm. McKinley and his counselors will be backed by the patriots and citizen soldiery of this great nation, men who dread war and its attendant horrors, but who dread far more the ignominy of national humiliation and the trailing of Old Glory in the dust. And right here comes in place our plea for the fullest use of that grandly glorious trait of COMMON SENSE. And this desirable feature is being manifested by the head of the nation. How? By the exemplification of that grand adage: "In time of peace, prepare for war." We need full preparation. We must not be caught in the heavy rain without an umbrella. We must not despise the power of the foe. We must push forward preparations in every particular. Ammunition and war material must be manufactured and placed in their proper places. The coast defenses must be hurried to completion. The torpedo department must hustle in placing affairs in such a shape that a foreign war vessel will find it exceedingly difficult to avoid destruction as it approaches our main cities, and the national guard of the various states must be ready for the front at a moment's notice. To the wide-awake observer, the fact is patent that all this is being done, and performed in such a manner as to force the knowledge that a master's hand is at the helm of the ship of state. Don't bluster; don't bluff; await, as calmly as you can, the decision of our government; and then, if war must come, respond like true patriots, buckle on your armor, bid loved ones good-bye, and, in the name of God and country, do your duty as a citizen soldier of this great republic.

MRS. JANE HARKER BOYCE.

A Beautiful Tribute From One Who Knew Her.

EDITOR NEWS REVIEW.—Will you kindly allow me, as one of the many whose privilege it was to enjoy her genial friendship, a little space in which to make this brief tribute to the character and memory of Mrs. Jane Boyce. It is true she needs no written words of eulogy. She had written her own eulogy where it cannot be effaced—in the hearts of the many who have known and loved her. It is also true that her nature was so modest and free from ostentation that she would have been the last to desire any public notice of her virtues. It is rather a privilege which our love demands, and a duty which we owe to ourselves, to make suitable mention of a life which has been so pleasantly and helpfully linked with our own, and whose departure from our midst leaves such widespread bereavement. It is really difficult to speak of this good woman, as she was well known to many, without seeming to use the words of fulsome praise.

Surely a more amiable and well-regulated disposition, a rarer common sense, a more uniform kindness and gentleness of spirit, a wiser intelligence in the essential matters of life, a more unselfish thoughtfulness for the welfare and happiness of others, a more admirable cheerfulness and buoyancy under all the circumstances of life, it would be difficult indeed to find. Openness and candor and perfect sincerity characterized everything she said and did, and her prevailing state of mind was one of benevolence and charity.

It is true, she had a keen and ready sense of humor. She read the ludicrous side of life as well as its more serious phases, and her observations were often so witty, and modes of expression were so bright and original as to make her a most interesting and charming companion.

Thoroughly genuine and true in herself, she was quick to discern the faults and follies of others. Yet she never commented on them in a bitter or censorious fashion, but always in a tone of compassion and sympathy. If asked to specify her conspicuous qualities, I would say: Genuineness, kindness, cheerfulness and sterling common sense. Yet she was distinguished not so much by a few special traits, which stood out in striking prominence, as by the happy and harmonious combination of a large number of excellent gifts and qualities. Her character was a singularly symmetrical and well balanced one; as admirable for its lack of defects and fanaticisms and unseemly eccentricities, as it was for its elements of positive worth. Of few persons could it be said that there was so much to admire, so little, indeed, which was subject for criticism. In the contacts of the household the character is tested as in no other place; and it has been said by one who spent several months in the home of Mrs. Boyce, that in all those months with their varied intercourse, no word was spoken, no temper displayed but such as is becoming to a noble, thoughtful Christian woman. Indeed, it was in the home first of all and in the friendly and social circle that she chiefly exhibited her sterling qualities, and made her influence deeply felt. There was no pious cant nor pharisaical pretension, no public demonstration to be discounted in the home and in the daily contact with neighbors and friends; no zeal for leadership in prominent public movements. It was the daily and hourly living out of a genuine and practical gospel; a wealth of unobtrusive but substantial Christian virtues. A quiet faithful performance of duties, and a patient filling of the gentlest offices of household and friendship and neighborhood which made her home a

Bethel to her husband and all who entered it, and the life a persuasive and unceasing benediction.

Of faith and religion I have said nothing because nothing needs be said. Who asks about faith when the life has been such as this? Nobody dares ask it, for beholding the beauty and fruitage of the life they know the divine root from which it sprang. That such a one as I have described would never grow old, goes without saying. The passing years wrought little change in the freshness and youthfulness of that genial spirit, which, at three score and ten, made her a welcome companion in the youngest and brightest circle, and in possession of which she passed as by translation into the land of glorious and immortal youth.

"She walked with God, and she is not for God has taken her." Such was this excellent woman, as she was known to many who might have written in more worthy terms. "Aunt Jane" she was called in a large and loving circle, and there was a beautiful fitness in the endearing name.

Paul wrote to the Romans, "Salute Rufus and his mother and mine." There was no natural kinship between Rufus and the Apostle, but Paul claimed the spiritual motherhood of the mother of his friend. By her benign personal influence and affectionate Christian help she had earned the character and name of a mother. Just so of the one in whose precious memory these words are written. She was prized beyond measure in all the natural relationships. But in a true and tender and beneficent sense she was "aunt" and "mother" to a larger number who knew her almost as a relative of the blood, who cherished her friendship as one of heaven's choicest gifts, and who in the years to come will call her memory fragrant and blessed.

M.

Struggles of the Pilgrim Children With One of the "R's."

Next to penmanship the colonial school and schoolmaster took firm stand on "ciphering." "The Bible and figures is what I want my boys to know," said the old farmer. I have examined with care a Wingate's Arithmetic which was used for over a century in the Winslow family in Massachusetts. The first edition was printed in 1620. It is certainly bewildering to a modern reader. "Pythagoras—His Table" is, of course, our multiplication table. Then comes "The Rule of Three," "The Double Golden Rule," "The Rule of Fellowship," "The Rule of False," etc., ending with "a collection of pleasant and polite questions to exercise all the parts of vulgar arithmetick."

Wingate's Arithmetic and Hodder's Arithmetic were succeeded by Pike's Arithmetic. This had 363 rules to be committed to memory, and not an explanation was given of one of them. It is the most barren schoolbook I have ever read. These printed arithmetics were not in common use. Nearly all teachers had manuscript "sum books," from which the scholars copied page after page of "sums," too often without any explanation of the process though there were also many and long rules, which helped the penmanship if they did not the mathematics.—Chautauquan.

Daudet and Animals.

Daudet had a lurking kindness for sinners. He pitied them, for he could not see how in the long run they could succeed in anything. But the self-righteous were more offensive to him. I think he was right in saying that men and women who pass for having never sinned are unpleasant companions, and, from the day of judgment standard, perhaps the worst sinners of all. The sensibility shown in "Jack" and other works did not extend to animals. Daudet, though a cagialier, was deaf to the chirp of grasshopper and cricket. Birds have no place in his rural sketches. He could not understand the touching beauty of the "last friend" at the poor man's funeral. Animals were simply brutes to Daudet. At best they were warnings to human beings not to live merely to eat, sleep and leave posterity behind them. They sometimes were vices incarnate. Such were the fox, the serpent, the scorpion. What a selfish heartless thing the ant was! It had a head if you will, but it was the sort of head that organizes labor in sooty factory towns. The dog was the beastliest beast of any. Daudet fled from every drawing room where he saw a lapdog. —Paris Letter in London Truth.

An Arbitrary Fee.

Victor Smith tells this story in the New York Press: "My father was an old time lawyer. He tried a little case for his bootmaker and entered on the books a charge of $15, the price of a new pair of boots. When the latter was delivered, the accompanying bill was $30. A man of any other profession would have taken offense at the apparent effort to "do" him, but the lawyer smilingly raised his fee to $45, and Mr. Smart Aleck Bootmaker had to pay. That was an arbitrary fee. Doctors sometimes enjoy the privileges of it."

TONSILINE CURES SORE THROAT.

Read what a well-known Minister
writes us about Tonsiline:

East Palestine, O., April 8, 1895.

The Tonsiline Co.:

I take pleasure in saying that we have used Tonsiline in the family for ulcerated sore throat, and it not only seemed to prevent the attack from being so severe as formerly, but cured the throat completely in a very few days. When any one of us has sore throat of any kind, the rush is for the Tonsiline bottle, and that is the last of it. It is certainly a most excellent remedy.

Yours very truly,

If an enemy did the work, where rests the responsibility? Who did the infamous deed? The whole civilized world will cry out against and condemn, in no uncertain terms, the cowards who perpetrated such a foul act. Common sense says: "await the verdict of the investigating committee." The members thereof are of ripe experience, unquestioned nerve and courage, and they will, under the express orders of the United States government, probe the matter to the bottom, not thinking of consequences, but doing their plain duty like well disciplined soldiers, who simply obey orders and report to their official head. Wm. McKinley, the president of these United States, backed by officials who understand international law to a nicety, will DEMAND the very fullest reparation at the hands of the Spanish government, in case that government is in any manner responsible for the lives of 253 murdered seamen, gallant officers, sailors and marines; and Wm. McKinley and his counselors will be backed by the patriots and citizen soldiery of this great nation, men who dread war and its attendant horrors, but who dread far more the ignominy of national humiliation and the trailing of Old Glory in the dust. And right here comes in place our plea for the fullest use of that grandly glorious trait of COMMON SENSE. And this desirable feature is being manifested by the head of the nation. How? By the exemplification of that grand adage: "In time of peace, prepare for war." We need full preparation. We must not be caught in the heavy rain without an umbrella. We must not despise the power of the foe. We must push forward preparations in every particular. Ammunition and war material must be manufactured and placed in their proper places. The coast defenses must be hurried to completion. The torpedo department must hustle in placing affairs in such a shape that a foreign war vessel will find it exceedingly difficult to avoid destruction as it approaches our main cities, and the national guard of the various states must be ready for the front at a moment's notice. To the wide-awake observer, the fact is patent that all this is being done, and performed in such a manner as to force the knowledge that a master's hand is at the helm of the ship of state. Don't bluster; don't bluff; await, as calmly as you can, the decision of our government; and then, if war must come, respond like true patriots, buckle on your armor, bid loved ones good-bye, and, in the name of God and country, do your duty as a citizen soldier of this great republic.

MRS. JANE HARKER BOYCE.

A Beautiful Tribute From One Who Knew Her.

EDITOR NEWS REVIEW.—Will you kindly allow me, as one of the many whose privilege it was to enjoy her genial friendship, a little space in which to make this brief tribute to the character and memory of Mrs. Jane Boyce. It is true she needs no written words of eulogy. She had written her own eulogy where it cannot be effaced—in the hearts of the many who have known and loved her. It is also true that her nature was so modest and free from ostentation that she would have been the last to desire any public notice of her virtues. It is rather a privilege which our love demands, and a duty which we owe to ourselves, to make suitable mention of a life which has been so pleasantly and helpfully linked with our own, and whose departure from our midst leaves such widespread bereavement. It is really difficult to speak of this good woman, as she was well known to many, without seeming to use the words of fulsome praise.

Surely a more amiable and well-regulated disposition, a rarer common sense, a more uniform kindness and gentleness of spirit, a wiser intelligence in the essential matters of life, a more unselfish thoughtfulness for the welfare and happiness of others, a more admirable cheerfulness and buoyancy under all the circumstances of life, it would be difficult indeed to find. Openness and candor and perfect sincerity characterized everything she said and did, and her prevailing state of mind was one of benevolence and charity.

It is true, she had a keen and ready sense of humor. She read the ludicrous side of life as well as its more serious phases, and her observations were often so witty, and modes of expression were so bright and original as to make her a most interesting and charming companion.

Thoroughly genuine and true in herself, she was quick to discern the faults and follies of others. Yet she never commented on them in a bitter or censorious fashion, but always in a tone of compassion and sympathy. If asked to specify her conspicuous qualities, I would say: Genuineness, kindness, cheerfulness and sterling common sense. Yet she was distinguished not so much by a few special traits, which stood out in striking prominence, as by the happy and harmonious combination of a large number of excellent gifts and qualities. Her character was a singularly symmetrical and well balanced one; as admirable for its lack of defects and fanaticisms and unseemly eccentricities, as it was for its elements of positive worth. Of few persons could it be said that there was so much to admire, so little, indeed, which was subject for criticism. In the contacts of the household the character is tested as in no other place; and it has been said by one who spent several months in the home of Mrs. Boyce, that in all those months with their varied intercourse, no word was spoken, no temper displayed but such as is becoming to a noble, thoughtful Christian woman. Indeed, it was in the home first of all and in the friendly and social circle that she chiefly exhibited her sterling qualities, and made her influence deeply felt. There was no pious cant nor pharisaical pretension, no public demonstration to be discounted in the home and in the daily contact with neighbors and friends; no zeal for leadership in prominent public movements. It was the daily and hourly living out of a genuine and practical gospel; a wealth of unobtrusive but substantial Christian virtues. A quiet faithful performance of duties, and a patient filling of the gentlest offices of household and friendship and neighborhood which made her home a

Bethel to her husband and all who entered it, and the life a persuasive and unceasing benediction.

Of faith and religion I have said nothing because nothing needs be said. Who asks about faith when the life has been such as this? Nobody dares ask it, for beholding the beauty and fruitage of the life they know the divine root from which it sprang. That such a one as I have described would never grow old, goes without saying. The passing years wrought little change in the freshness and youthfulness of that genial spirit, which, at three score and ten, made her a welcome companion in the youngest and brightest circle, and in possession of which she passed as by translation into the land of glorious and immortal youth.

"She walked with God, and she is not for God has taken her." Such was this excellent woman, as she was known to many who might have written in more worthy terms. "Aunt Jane" she was called in a large and loving circle, and there was a beautiful fitness in the endearing name.

Paul wrote to the Romans, "Salute Rufus and his mother and mine." There was no natural kinship between Rufus and the Apostle, but Paul claimed the spiritual motherhood of the mother of his friend. By her benign personal influence and affectionate Christian help she had earned the character and name of a mother. Just so of the one in whose precious memory these words are written. She was prized beyond measure in all the natural relationships. But in a true and tender and beneficent sense she was "aunt" and "mother" to a larger number who knew her almost as a relative of the blood, who cherished her friendship as one of heaven's choicest gifts, and who in the years to come will call her memory fragrant and blessed.

M.

Next to penmanship the colonial school and schoolmaster took firm stand on "ciphering." "The Bible and figures is what I want my boys to know," said the old farmer. I have examined with care a Wingate's Arithmetic which was used for over a century in the Winslow family in Massachusetts. The first edition was printed in 1620. It is certainly bewildering to a modern reader. "Pythagoras—His Table" is, of course, our multiplication table. Then comes "The Rule of Three," "The Double Golden Rule," "The Rule of Fellowship," "The Rule of False," etc., ending with "a collection of pleasant and polite questions to exercise all the parts of vulgar arithmetic."

Wingate's Arithmetic and Hodder's Arithmetic were succeeded by Pike's Arithmetic. This had 363 rules to be committed to memory, and not an explanation was given of one of them. It is the most barren schoolbook I have ever read. These printed arithmetics were not in common use. Nearly all teachers had manuscript "sum books," from which the scholars copied page after page of "sums," too often without any explanation of the process though there were also many and long rules, which helped the penmanship if they did not the mathematics.—Chautauquan.

Daudet and Animals.

Daudet had a lurking kindness for sinners. He pitied them, for he could not see how in the long run they could succeed in anything. But the self-righteous were more offensive to him. I think he was right in saying that men and women who pass for having never sinned are unpleasant companions, and, from the day of judgment standard, perhaps the worst sinners of all. The sensibility shown in "Jack" and other works did not extend to animals. Daudet, though a cavalier, was deaf to the chirp of grasshopper and cricket. Birds have no place in his rural sketches. He could not understand the touching beauty of the "last friend" at the poor man's funeral. Animals were simply brutes to Daudet. At best they were warnings to human beings not to live merely to eat, sleep and leave posterity behind them. They sometimes were vices incarnate. Such were the fox, the serpent, the scorpion. What a selfish heartless thing the ant was! It had a head if you will, but it was the sort of head that organizes labor in sooty factory towns. The dog was the beastliest beast of any. Daudet fled from every drawing room where he saw a lapdog. —Paris Letter in London Truth.

An Arbitrary Fee.

Victor Smith tells this story in the New York Press: "My father was an old time lawyer. He tried a little case for his bootmaker and entered on the books a charge of $15, the price of a new pair of boots. When the latter was delivered, the accompanying bill was $30. A man of any other profession would have taken offense at the apparent effort to 'do' him, but the lawyer smilingly raised his fee to $45, and Mr. Smart Aleck Bootmaker had to pay. That was an arbitrary fee. Doctors sometimes enjoy the privileges of it."

CURES

SORE THROAT.

Read what a well-known Minister
writes us about Tonsiline:

East Palestine, O., April 8, 1895.

The Tonsiline Co.:

I take pleasure in saying that we have used Tonsiline in the family for ulcerated sore throat, and it not only seemed to prevent the attack from being so severe as formerly, but cured the throat completely in a very few days. When any one of us has sore throat of any kind, the rush is for the Tonsiline bottle, and that is the last of it. It is certainly a most excellent remedy.

Yours very truly,

DEAKIN WAS INDICTED

The Grand Jury Returned a True Bill.

ONE HUNDRED AND FIVE PERSONS

Must Answer to the Court For What They Are Charged With Doing—Liverpool Was Not Forgotten—No Session Until Tuesday Evening.

LISBON, Feb. 26.—[Special].—The grand jury made a return last night at 12:30 o'clock, showing that the first work in the official career of Prosecutor Brookes covers a wide range.

The jury examined 217 witnesses and returned 105 indictments, the majority being misdemeanors. There are few felones. They praised Sheriff Gill and the other officials about the jail, but as usual condemned the old structure. They recommended that all mayors and justices require security for costs in all cases referred to the grand jury.

The indictments made public are as follows:

Samuel McCrady, assault and battery; Joseph Deakin, malicious injury and destruction of property; Sherman Ketchum, breaking and entering a house and attempting to commit personal violence and abuse; Henry Neining, pointing and discharging firearms; Robert London, assault and battery.

As court has closed for the week the accused will not be arraigned until Tuesday evening.

OLD WOMAN HAD MONEY.

Valuable Find of Superintendent Riddle at the Infirmary.

LISBON, Feb. 26.—[Special].—Ellen Davis applied to the trustees at Salem for transportation to Toledo, claiming she was destitute. The trustees promptly sent her to the infirmary, where she was searched and $155 was found in a purse sewed in a pocket of her dress. A written contract signed by Thomas Dodson, of Cresson, Pa., was also found. It stipulates that on the payment of $799 he had promised to keep her during her natural life, and was never to let her become a charge upon any county. The infirmary directors have written to Dodson requesting him to take charge of Mrs. Davis.

She says she is 77 years old. It is not known how the woman happened to be in Salem.

Court Business.

LISBON, Feb. 26.—[Special].—In the case of G. W. Meredith against John Bauman judgment for $731.80 was taken, and premises ordered sold.

Oscar Gillespie was sentenced to 15 days in jail and fined the costs for assault and battery.

Elmer Minor, Richard Ablet and Walter Tate, of Leetonia, were charged with furnishing liquor to minors. The first said they were innocent, but Tate plead guilty and was fined $10 and costs. Tate is only 18 years old, and Judge Smith told him he would not imprison him, but he should go to work at once and earn money to pay his fine.

A marriage license was issued to E. Francis and Sadie Loch.

ADOPTED RESOLUTIONS.

Clerks Want a Change in the Sunday Closing Law.

The clerks' union at the meeting last evening adopted resolutions in regard to the Sunday closing law, which will be forwarded to Representative Ashford.

The resolution asks for an amendment to the law, which is deemed to be too lax, inasmuch as it furnishes a penalty for the person who does the work, but does not provide a penalty for the employer. The amendment will effectually cover the ground, and resolutions are being adopted by the various unions in the state.

HASTILY DEPARTED.

MINISTERS IN POLITICS.

The Liverpool and Wellsville Association to Meet.

It is stated today that a joint session of the ministerial associations of Liverpool and Wellsville will be held in the Young Men's Christian association in this place Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

The matter has been kept very quiet, but the story says the gentlemen will discuss the municipal affairs of the two cities and the spring campaign.

Tom Thumb wedding, Tuesday night, March 1, Association hall. Admission, 10 cents.

Attending a Meeting.

The Southern Columbiana County Teachers association is this afternoon holding an institute at the Hickman school house, about three miles north of the city.

Several teachers of the city are present. The principal address will be delivered by Professor McDonald, of Wellsville.

All paper trimmed free at Kinsey's 5 and 10.

Cases in Court.

The Alliance Grocery company have commenced action against C. A. Tucker for $16.97. The case will be heard Monday morning by Squire Hill.

The case of S. J. Faulk vs. Ab Waggle will be heard by a jury in the same court Monday afternoon.

Tom Thumb will be married on Tuesday night, March 1, at Association hall. Admission, 10 cents.

Two Arrests.

Robert Brown was arrested last night by Officer Jennings, and this morning August Morat, of Steubenville, was taken by Officer Terrence. Both were charged with being drunk, and had not been heard at 8 o'clock.

Crowded the Bethel.

The Floating Bethel, which has been tied to the Virginia shore for several weeks, near Chester, is the scene of large meetings every night. Last night the room of the craft was crowded and several conversions were made.

WELLSVILLE.

WILL NOT BE BUILT

Methodists Decide on Another Plan.

A NEW CHAPEL IN WEST END

Will Be Erected at Once, and the Property on Main Street Will Be Improved. The Masonic Banquet—All the News of Wellsville.

A very important meeting was held at the First M. E. church last evening. Doctor Jackson, presiding elder, was present and the business of the quarter was settled.

The most interesting action was the decision not to build a new church on the property in Main street at present. It was decided instead to erect a chapel in the West End and to improve the First church at once. Thos. H. Silver, A. R. Wells and E. S. Kelly were appointed to look after the improvements, and J. B. Goff, D. T. Edwards and J. C. Catlett will look after the chapel. A lot will be purchased in the new addition. The committees are to report to the official board at once.

Personal.

Mrs. Frank Lowry, Main street, entertained friends at tea this afternoon.

Miss Mary Furniss and her niece, Mary Roberts, went to New Castle, Pa., to visit relatives.

Miss Minnie McLane went to Irondale on the morning train.

Mrs. A. Bable, of Smith's Ferry arrived on the morning train to visit with her son Will Farmer of Center street. The news of the severe illness of a little child in a family brought her.

The Misses Nessley, of Mahon's, will dispose of their home and household goods on March 10.

Prof. W. H. Gallup is in town arranging for some assistance in a concert to be given in New Cumberland, W. Va., soon.

Prof. J. L. McDonald entertained District Lecturer Moore, of Leetonia, last night.

Miss Loretta Bertolotto, of Leetonia, is expected to arrive on Wednesday for a visit with the Misses Stevenson, Main street.

Miss Elizabeth Ballard, of North Branch, Mich., will return to her home the coming week, after a very pleasant visit with the the Misses Stevenson.

The News of Wellsville.

Misses Sue and Nan Stevenson, Alma and Emma Reiber, Elizabeth Ballard, Mary Bright, Mabel Boyd, Mary Stokes, Maud McGregor and Lou Owens formed a theater party for Pittsburg to see "The American Citizen," last night.

On March 8, members of the high school will give a play, "The Sleeping Car," in city hall for the benefit of the school library. They are hard at work, and will probably attract a large crowd.

The Elite club met last night, 20 members being present. Joseph Cassidy, of East Liverpool, acted as instructor. They will hold a business meeting Monday night in the Foraker club rooms.

A bachelor girls club with eleven charter members, Misses Helen and Ina Stevenson, Mary Rayl, Ruby Sheets, Maggie Belle Arnold, Helen Denhart, Zana Smith, Helen Andrews, Grace McGregor, Mamie Helpenstein and Erla Stevenson, was organized last night at the residence of C. R. Arnold. Miss Helen Stevenson was elected president, Miss Mamie Helpenstein, secretary and Maggie Belle Arnold, treasurer. The object of the club is purely social, and a meeting will be held every two weeks.

The Wellsville Athletic association will meet in the Foraker club rooms Monday evening. The membership soliciting committee will be able to report about 100 members for initiation.

Engine 679 after having received general repairs has been turned out for service in Cleveland.

The initial steps are being made for extensive repairs to the machinery at the shops.

The Masonic banquet last night was a delightful affair. Almost 100 Masons were present, and the arrangements as carried out could not have been better. Among the visiting Masons was Presiding Elder Jackson.

Howard Ray, of Hanover, is visiting John Eidenier.

S. S. Cope was too ill to attend to business yesterday.

Miracles and Dilettantism.

"He (Pugin) visited Sant' Andrea della Fratte, the scene of the miraculous conversion of Abbe Ratisbonne, the Jew. Abbe Ratisbonne entered the church a Jew and came out a Christian, having seen there, he stated, a vision of our Lady. 'The story,' Pugin said after seeing the church, 'is demonstrably false. The man could not have said a word about a hideous church. Our lady could not have chosen such a place for a vision. The man could have said only in him to have staid in the church. But all.'"

"The legend to whom his remarks were addressed replied, 'As I heard the story, I was not at the moment thinking of the architecture of the place. I had a whole face changed. 'Is that so? When he was a man of God. He knew what true Christianity was, though he was a Jew. I honor him. Our lady would have come to him anywhere. The story is demonstrably true.'—Life of Cardinal Wiseman," by Wilfrid Ward.

Duck Eggs in an Albumen Factory.

Near Chingkiang, China, is a great albumen factory for the utilization of the duck eggs which are produced in that region in enormous quantities, flocks of 4,000 and 5,000 ducks being by no means uncommon. The eggs are broken at the rate of from 40,000 to 60,000 per day by women, who separate the white from the yolk, the former being carefully cleaned and dried until they resemble fish glue, when they are packed in 400 pound cases lined with zinc. The yolks are passed through sieves into 25 gallon receptacles, mixed with a salt and borax solution, packed in 500 pound barrels and used in Europe for preparing and dressing articles of superior quality. The albumen finds a ready market in England, France and Germany for dyes for the best cotton goods.—Philadelphia Press.

WILL GO TO WAR AGAIN

If the Country Needs a Good Sailor and Gunner.

SENT WORD TO THE SECRETARY

Henry Stairiohann, Who Served In the Rebellion, Has Notified the Government That He can Still Steer a Ship and Fire a Gun if Necessary.

Henry Stairiohann, a veteran of the Rebellion, this morning sent his name to Secretary Long, as an old sailor who stood ready to answer the call of his country.

The veteran is 66 years of age, but says he can still steer a ship and fire a gun with any of the younger blood in the navy. He is in good health, and does not seem to be as old as the age he gives. During the war he served on the Wabash, fighting under old Admiral Dupont then in command of the South Atlantic squadron.

Stairiohann has resided in the city for some time, and is known to many persons. He had been hearing the latest news this morning, and was enthusiastic in the declaration that Old Glory should be defended.

"You should not be glad because Mrs. Manchester is in trouble," said Mr. Northside. "You should remember that the Bible says, 'Rejoice not when thine enemy falleth.'"

"Oh, that's all right!" replied Mrs. Northside briskly. "Mrs. Manchester isn't an enemy at all; she is my dearest friend." — Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

MINISTERS IN POLITICS.

The Liverpool and Wellsville Association to Meet.

It is stated today that a joint session of the ministerial associations of Liverpool and Wellsville will be held in the Young Men's Christian association in this place Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

The matter has been kept very quiet, but the story says the gentlemen will discuss the municipal affairs of the two cities and the spring campaign.

Tom Thumb wedding, Tuesday night, March 1, Association hall. Admission, 10 cents.

Attending a Meeting.

The Southern Columbiana County Teachers association is this afternoon holding an institute at the Hickman school house, about three miles north of the city.

Several teachers of the city are present. The principal address will be delivered by Professor McDonald, of Wellsville.

All paper trimmed free at Kinsey's 5 and 10.

Cases In Court.

The Alliance Grocery company have commenced action against C. A. Tucker for $16.97. The case will be heard Monday morning by Squire Hill.

The case of S. J. Faulk vs. Ab Waggle will be heard by a jury in the same court Monday afternoon.

Tom Thumb will be married on Tuesday night, March 1, at Association hall. Admission, 10 cents.

Two Arrests.

Robert Brown was arrested last night by Officer Jennings, and this morning August Morat, of Steubenville, was taken by Officer Terrence. Both were charged with being drunk, and had not been heard at 3 o'clock.

Crowded the Bethel.

The Floating Bethel, which has been tied to the Virginia shore for several weeks, near Chester, is the scene of large meetings every night. Last night the room of the craft was crowded and several conversions were made.

WELLSVILLE.

Methodists Decide on Another Plan.

Will Be Erected at Once, and the Property on Main Street Will Be Improved. The Masonic Banquet—All the News of Wellsville.

A very important meeting was held at the First M. E. church last evening. Doctor Jackson, presiding elder, was present and the business of the quarter was settled.

The most interesting action was the decision not to build a new church on the property in Main street at present. It was decided instead to erect a chapel in the West End and to improve the First church at once. Thos. H. Silver, A. R. Wells and E. S. Kelly were appointed to look after the improvements, and J. B. Goff, D. T. Edwards and J. C. Catlett will look after the chapel. A lot will be purchased in the new addition. The committees are to report to the official board at once.

Personal.

Mrs. Frank Lowry, Main street, entertained friends at tea this afternoon.

Miss Mary Furniss and her niece, Mary Roberts, went to New Castle, Pa., to visit relatives.

Miss Minnie McLane went to Irondale on the morning train.

Mrs. A. Bable, of Smith's Ferry arrived on the morning train to visit with her son Will Farmer of Center street. The news of the severe illness of a little child in a family brought her.

The Misses Nessley, of Mahon's, will dispose of their home and household goods on March 10.

Prof. W. H. Gallup is in town arranging for some assistance in a concert to be given in New Cumberland, W. Va., soon.

Prof. J. L. McDonald entertained District Lecturer Moore, of Leetonia, last night.

Miss Loretta Bertollette, of Leetonia, is expected to arrive on Wednesday for a visit with the Misses Stevenson, Main street.

Miss Elizabeth Ballard, of North Branch, Mich., will return to her home the coming week, after a very pleasant visit with the the Misses Stevenson.

The News of Wellsville.

Misses Sue and Nan Stevenson, Alma and Emma Reiber, Elizabeth Ballard, Mary Bright, Mabel Boyd, Mary Stokes, Maud McGregor and Lou Owens formed a theater party for Pittsburg to see "The American Citizen," last night.

On March 8, members of the high school will give a play, "The Sleeping Car," in city hall for the benefit of the school library. They are hard at work, and will probably attract a large crowd.

The Elite club met last night, 20 members being present. Joseph Cassidy, of East Liverpool, acted as instructor. They will hold a business meeting Monday night in the Foraker club rooms.

A bachelor girls club with eleven charter members, Misses Helen and Ina Stevenson, Mary Rayl, Ruby Sheets, Maggie Belle Arnold, Helen Denhart, Zana Smith, Helen Andrews, Grace McGregor, Mamie Helpenstein and Erla Stevenson, was organized last night at the residence of C. R. Arnold. Miss Helen Stevenson was elected president, Miss Mamie Helpenstein, secretary and Maggie Belle Arnold, treasurer. The object of the club is purely social, and a meeting will be held every two weeks.

The Wellsville Athletic association will meet in the Foraker club rooms Monday evening. The membership soliciting committee will be able to report about 100 members for initiation.

Engine 679 after having received general repairs has been turned out for service in Cleveland.

The initial steps are being made for extensive repairs to the machinery at the shops.

The Masonic banquet last night was a delightful affair. Almost 100 Masons were present, and the arrangements as carried out could not have been better. Among the visiting Masons was Presiding Elder Jackson.

Howard Ray, of Hanover, is visiting John Eidenier.

S. S. Cope was too ill to attend to business yesterday.

Miracles and Dilettanteism.

"He (Pugin) visited Sant' Andrea della Fratte, the scene of the miraculous conversion of Abbe Ratisbonne, the Jew. Abbe Ratisbonne entered the church a Jew and came out a Christian, having seen there, he stated, a vision of our Lady. 'The story,' Pugin said after seeing the church, 'is demonstrably false. The man could not have said a word unless he had been a Jew. Our Lady could not have chosen such a building as a vision. The man could not have been sure in him to have staid in the church at all.'"

"The friend to whom his remarks were made replied, 'As I heard the story, Ratisbonne was not at the moment praying, but thinking of the uncounted millions of the architecture of the place. Pugin's whole face changed. 'Is that so?' then he was a man of God. He knew what true Christianity was, though he was a Jew. I honor him. Our Lady would have come to him anywhere. The story is demonstrably true.'—Life of Cardinal Wiseman," by Wilfrid Ward.

Duck Eggs in an Albumen Factory.

Near Chingkiang, China, is a great albumen factory for the utilization of the duck eggs which are produced in that region in enormous quantities, flocks of 4,000 and 5,000 ducks being by no means uncommon. The eggs are broken at the rate of from 40,000 to 60,000 per day by women, who separate the white from the yolk, the former being carefully cleaned and dried until they resemble fish glue, when they are packed in 400 pound cases lined with zinc. The yolks are passed through sieves into 25 gallon receptacles, mixed with a salt and borax solution, packed in 500 pound barrels and used in Europe for preparing and dressing articles of superior quality. The albumen finds a ready market in England, France and Germany for dyes for the best cotton goods.—Philadelphia Press.

WILL GO TO WAR AGAIN

If the Country Needs a Good Sailor and Gunner.

SENT WORD TO THE SECRETARY

Henry Stairiarhann, Who Served In the Rebellion, Has Notified the Government That He can Still Steer a Ship and Fire a Gun if Necessary.

Henry Stairiarhann, a veteran of the Rebellion, this morning sent his name to Secretary Long, as an old sailor who stood ready to answer the call of his country.

The veteran is 66 years of age, but says he can still steer a ship and fire a gun with any of the younger blood in the navy. He is in good health, and does not seem to be as old as the age he gives. During the war he served on the Wabash, fighting under old Admiral Dupont then in command of the South Atlantic squadron.

Stairiarhann has resided in the city for some time, and is known to many persons. He had been hearing the latest news this morning, and was enthusiastic in the declaration that Old Glory should be defended.

MERCER IS A LEADER

He Occupies a Good Place in the Big League.

He Goes Back to Fast Company With Good Prospects of Staying There For a Time. One of His Friends Thinks He Is All Right.

Winnie Mercer not only holds a very good position among the pitchers of the National League but is tied for first place with Rusie, Seymour and McJames for the greatest number of shut-outs. Last season he succeeded in whitewashing St. Louis twice and Philadelphia once. He has not yet signed a contract with Washington for the season of 1898, but has a perfect understanding with the management and will affix his signature to his contract when it is submitted to him.

The Louisville correspondent of Sporting Life says: "First Baseman Carey writes that he is satisfied with the terms offered him and will sign his contract at once. Carey is glad to get back into big league company and is confident that he can hold his own."

"Scott Stratton paid Louisville a visit from his home at Taylorsville. Stratton is under reserve by Reading, but would like to get away from there. He played in the same league with Carey last year and unhesitatingly predicts that player's success the coming season."

Salem will place a team in the Ohio league and it is probable they will sign a number of East Liverpool players.

EVIDENCES OF PROSPERITY.

How One Merchant Views the Situation.

That the prosperity of this city is becoming widely known is evidenced by the number of traveling men who come here. A prominent business man in commenting on the fact said: "The condition of affairs here is becoming well known, and since the first of the year eastern houses that never think of sending salesmen to cities this size have had traveling men here, and they continue to come. All this I think is very good evidence of prosperity."

The Orange Social.

An orange social is something that has been adopted this winter. Invitations are made on orange colored paper, and each guest must bring an orange as a ticket of admission. Orange crape paper is used in all sorts of curious ways. The candles are of that cheerful hue, and the ices, sherbet and candies are colored and flavored with orange. There is a large tree placed in a prominent position and loaded with fruit. Some of the fruit is natural, but most is made of crape paper, stuffed with cotton, and a tiny gift is hidden in each. If the affair is given for charity, these are sold for a small sum, but the net profit will not be inconsiderable.—New York Tribune.

More People.

Three movings were handled at the freight depot this morning. This is as many as were handled the remainder of the week.

The Work Is Completed.

The carpenters who have been working at the freight depot for almost a month, completed their work this afternoon and will leave for Wellsville this evening. The work car will be taken there also. The painters will not be through for several weeks.

Plans Coming Next Week.

President Hall, of the Citizens' National bank, said yesterday afternoon that he expected the plans of the new building to be in the city not later than next week. No time will be lost in beginning work after the contract is let.

WEDDED AT A FAIR.

A California Couple Were Rewarded With Complete Outfits and Tickets to Dawson.

Harry Miller and Fanny Turner were married—as an attraction of the Jubilee fair—in the Mechanics' pavilion, in San Francisco, the other night. Their reward was complete outfits, tickets to Dawson via St. Michael's and $150. From 15,000 to 20,000 persons witnessed the marriage.

The couple were married in the same clothes which they will wear in the regions where they go to search for gold. When it was necessary for the bridegroom to place upon his bride's finger the ring, she had to remove her fur gloves. Miller's costume consisted of boots, fur coat and cape, with pants of some heavy coarse material, while his bride was clad in a thick brown skirt with an equally heavy jacket and a fur lined cape which covered her head. She wore leggings and heavy shoes.

Rev. Frank S. Ford of the Christian church performed the ceremony. When he saluted the bride with a kiss, the great audience cheered.

The platform on which the couple were married was gay with Klondike trappings and wreathed with smilax that culminated in a marriage bell. To heighten the Klondike effect a man in Alaskan costume walked through the crowd on snowshoes, looking for snow. Four beautiful dogs drew a sled that was to carry the bride and bridegroom from the platform to their dressing rooms, but it was too difficult an undertaking to get through the crowd, and the couple had to walk. On the platform was a sled with a camping outfit, and in another corner was a mammoth wedding cake.—New York World.

WOMEN'S BANK ACCOUNTS.

A New York Young Woman Supervises Them For Her Own Sex.

The latest way which women have found of making themselves useful to their own sex and at the same time earning a living takes a severely practical turn. It is teaching bookkeeping and supervising the women's bank accounts. One young woman, looking about for something to do, happened to have taken a course in bookkeeping at a business college, and that was followed by a brief business experience. She thought of imparting her knowledge to her own sex. Women who had bank accounts and liked to have them kept in better order than they were personally equal to were delighted to pay the modest price asked for her services. Incidentally they were able to learn just what they should do, and the young woman has succeeded in gaining a clientele that makes her business highly profitable.

In addition to that branch of her work she teaches bookkeeping to several classes whose members have taken to the new accomplishment as eagerly as if it were a diversion. The tendency of the newer employments that women are seeking is to rid their sisters who have means of nearly all responsibility. To have the trouble of choosing their own dresses has recently been lifted from their shoulders, and now they are able to get somebody to look at their bank-books and tell them just how much money they have. The next invader of the field of relieving women of means from all responsibility will have to undertake the final task of spending their money for them.—New York Sun.

GIFT FOR COLUMBIA.

Full Sized Locomotive Worth $12,000 to Be Owned by the University.

Columbia university is to own as a part of the equipment of the school of mechanical engineering a full sized locomotive worth $12,000. This machine is to run at all speeds in the mechanical laboratory. Professor Frederick R. Hutton of the department of engineering announced this fact for the first time the other afternoon.

Except at Purdue university of Indiana and the Chicago and Northwestern railway shops in Chicago there is nowhere in the world where a full sized passenger engine is in full operation indoors.

The new machine is the gift of the Baldwin Locomotive works of Philadelphia. It is called the Columbia. It was exhibited in the Transportation building at the World's fair in 1893. It has since been in successful operation, having developed very high speed. It will cost at least $3,500 to transport it and put it in place. This amount is to be given by a friend of the university, Professor Hutton says. It will be mounted over a pit in the large mechanical laboratory vault.

The receipt of this engine will raise the total value of the gifts presented this year to the mechanical engineering department of Columbia to over $55,000. Professor Hutton said recently that New York may now boast of the best equipped engineering school in America.—New York World.

Archaeological Find in Mexico.

An important archaeological find is reported about seven leagues southeast of Jajutla, state of Morelos. A priest hunting there recently ran across the ruins of an immense edifice, the remaining portion of one wall being 80 meters long by 7 high. It is built of granite blocks. Inscriptions proving its antiquity were found on the blocks. The priest notified the governor, who went to the scene.

YELLOW FEVER TEST.

A DISCOVERY THAT MAY BE OF GREAT USE.

The Application of the Agglutinative Test to the Germ and Its Results—How the Experiment Was Conducted—Some Benefits of This Discovery.

New Orleans medical circles are excited over the discovery of a successful manner of ascertaining whether or not a patient has yellow fever. The discovery was made here in New Orleans by local physicians, and a sufficient number of successful experiments have been made to invest the tests in the minds of physicians with an importance second only to the discovery of a yellow fever preventive.

The whole matter came out at the last meeting of the Orleans Parish Medical society of Jan. 22, which was probably the most important and largely attended of any in the history of that organization. Several valuable papers were read and discussed, chief among which was the paper of Drs. P. E. Archinard, the eminent bacteriologist; R. S. Woodson of the United States army, and John J. Archinard, demonstrator of bacteriology of Tulane university. These gentlemen have for the past three or four months been engaged at work in the laboratory of the state board of health upon the pathology of yellow fever. The most important part of their work has been the application of the agglutinative test to the germ of yellow fever.

The "agglutinative reaction," as the phenomenon is called, was discovered by a distinguished French scientist. In plain words, it consists of the application of the blood of a suspected case to the germ of typhoid fever. If the blood proves to be from a genuine case, it will kill all the germs and cause them to crowd together in clumps.

The recent outbreak of yellow fever offered to these gentlemen the opportunity to apply this test to numerous cases of yellow fever, and the paper read recently was a report of their valuable work, in which they prove the value of serum diagnosis in yellow fever and cite a great number of cases in which the test was successful. Dr. T. S. Dabney, member of one of the most important committees of the Parish Medical society and who took an important part in the discussion of Dr. Archinard's paper, said the other night that in the tests reported by the doctor 75 per cent of the cases showed what is known as agglutinal reaction. In other words, out of every 100 cases examined of supposed yellow fever blood 75 produced agglutination when tested by the yellow fever germ.

Dr. Dabney said that the test experiment was by the method of Dr. Y. Johnson of Montreal and was conducted in this way: A drop of blood is taken from the lobe of the ear of the patient and dissolved in 20 times its volume of sterilized water. The doctor then takes his culture tube bouillon of fever germs and puts the dissolved blood in it. In the culture tube are colonies of yellow fever germs which have been active and increasing for 24 hours. In from five to 30 minutes after the drop of suspected blood dissolved in 20 times its volume is put into the culture tube the germs in the blood become agglutinated, motionless, and motility ceases entirely, which shows that the blood is that of a yellow fever patient. If, however, when the dissolved blood is placed in the culture tube of yellow fever germs they are not affected by the mixture and agglutination does not take place, then it is not yellow fever.

If both typhoid and yellow fever reactions occur, then a clinical history of the case will be necessary to determine whether it is yellow or typhoid fever, unless further experiments reveal it. In the case of plasmanium malaria there is no difficulty in determining, as the malaria microbe is well known, having been described and photographed hundreds of times.

Dr. Dabney was asked what practical good would result to the public from this discovery, especially if it was as successful as it bids fair now to be.

He answered that in the first place it would enable physicians to give a positive diagnosis of seven cases out of every ten. In the second place it would not consume three days or more, as is often necessary in the clinical diagnosis of a case of yellow fever.

"For instance," said he, "suppose that the fever should occur at Ocean Springs, as it did last fall. Under this system of experiment there could be no possible doubt of the character of the disease, and it would not require at the very most over 24 hours. The reason of this is that the culture tube bouillon for a new test is replenished with new bouillon, and the yellow fever germs, being allowed to increase for 24 hours, are more active, healthful and energetic and consequently better suited for the test."

Tests have been made by this method for malarial reaction, typhoid reaction and yellow fever reaction. No test has been made yet as regards dengue fever, for the simple reason that there has been no dengue to test. The serum used has been in part sent from Dr. Saranelli in South America and in part from serum taken from the isolation hospital of the cases there during the late fever.

The results from tests made from the New Orleans serum have been fully as satisfactory as those made from the serum furnished by Dr. Saranelli. Dr. Dabney regards it as a wonderful discovery and says that Drs. Archinard and Woodson should have full credit for their investigation and tireless industry in the matter. He says the most hopeful part of it is that these investigations may lead to something better, and that in the case of yellow fever, as in smallpox, a preventive may thus be discovered.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

NATIONAL HOCKEY LEAGUE.

Bartow S. Weeks Will Try to Organize Such an Association.

Hockey is a sport which is apparently growing in popularity with the public. Bartow S. Weeks of the New York Athletic club has watched its progress with much interest, and he thinks that the time is ripe for the organization of a national league. The game is decidedly popular in Canada, where it has reached a stage of perfection that Americans are trying hard to attain, as was evidenced by the close score recently between the Shamrocks of Montreal and the New York Hockey club. Mr. Weeks has decided to visit Baltimore and Philadelphia for the purpose of securing the cooperation of the various clubs in those cities toward the organization of a league. He thinks there will be no trouble in getting hearty support from those sources, and afterward other cities may be induced to join or will do so voluntarily.

BARTOW S. WEEKS.

When it was suggested to Mr. Weeks that instead of goal posts a cage should be provided in which the rubber would have to be sent in order that a goal might be scored, he replied that he had been considering the matter of late. The conclusion he had reached was that a cage would improve the game, but not, however, such a cage as is used in the two New England roller polo leagues, which, he thought, would take up too much space.

Following out this plan a cage made of netting instead of wire, with three posts and a crossbar in front and triangular in shape, will be tried, and if it proves satisfactory will then be used by all the clubs. By making it triangular in shape Mr. Weeks thinks that it will allow all the fine playing necessary behind the goal and besides prevent any fluke goals being made by reason of the rubber being knocked the wrong way between the posts, only to be sent back from the front for a goal. With a cage the rubber would have to be taken out either to the side or in front of it in order that a point might be scored.—New York Herald.

"AT LAST!" SAID GEN. LEE.

A Sailor's Account of the Maine's Entrance to Havana Harbor.

Harry Andrews, carriage painter of Reading, Pa., recently received a letter from his brother, Frank Andrews, aged 26, who was a seaman on board the Maine for the past three years. Mr. Andrews' letter, dated at Havana, gives a description of the way the United States warship entered Havana fully prepared for action should she have been fired on.

"When the Maine received orders to go to Havana," Andrews writes, "we saw that all our guns were in good order. Cylinders were filled, shot and shell broken out and the decks almost cleared for action. Everything was ready for business, and we turned in for a couple of hours' sleep. We sighted Cuba at daylight, and all hands were soon on deck. We had heard the Spaniards would fire on us, so we were prepared to return it with interest.

"Our orders were to enter Havana, and it had to be done, so there was no half way about anything on this outfit. As we steamed in under the guns of Morro castle we calculated how long it would take us to silence it. Our turret guns' crews were standing at their guns under the turrets, out of sight of course, while the rest of the crew was lounging around the deck, but at the first shot from the Spanish they would have soon found their places, and we could have shown them one of the neatest Yankee tricks that was ever played.

"However, nothing happened, and we steamed in and moved to a buoy. We kept the ship ready for action until United States Consul General Lee came on board. He looked proud and, planking his foot down on the deck, exclaimed:

"'At last!'

"We still kept our ammunition ready and stood night watches ready for business at a moment's notice." Andrews says there were a number of Pennsylvania boys on the Maine.—New York Sun.

Medical Women.

An international congress of medical women is to meet in London this year. This is remarkable considering the fact that it is only about 50 years since the fair sex broke into that profession in search of a career and fortune.—New York Evening Sun.

MERCER IS A LEADER

He Occupies a Good Place In the Big League.

He Goes Back to East Company With Good Prospects of Staying There For a Time. One of His Friends Thinks He Is All Right.

Winnie Mercer not only holds a very good position among the pitchers of the National League but is tied for first place with Rusie, Seymour and Mc-James for the greatest number of shut-outs. Last season he succeeded in whitewashing St. Louis twice and Philadelphia once. He has not yet signed a contract with Washington for the season of 1898, but has a perfect understanding with the management and will affix his signature to his contract when it is submitted to him.

The Louisville correspondent of Sporting Life says: "First Baseman Carey writes that he is satisfied with the terms offered him and will sign his contract at once. Carey is glad to get back into big league company and is confident that he can hold his own."

"Scott Stratton paid Louisville a visit from his home at Taylorsville. Stratton is under reserve by Reading, but would like to get away from there. He played in the same league with Carey last year and unhesitatingly predicts that player's success the coming season."

Salem will place a team in the Ohio league and it is probable they will sign a number of East Liverpool players.

EVIDENCES OF PROSPERITY.

How One Merchant Views the Situation.

That the prosperity of this city is becoming widely known is evidenced by the number of traveling men who come here. A prominent business man in commenting on the fact said: "The condition of affairs here is becoming well known, and since the first of the year eastern houses that never think of sending salesmen to cities this size have had traveling men here, and they continue to come. All this I think is very good evidence of prosperity."

IN CHICAGO.

Doctor Lee Is Assisting Rev. Frank Talmage.

Doctor John Lloyd Lee is in Chicago where he is assisting Rev. Frank Talmage in a series of special services being conducted at Jefferson Park Presbyterian church.

Doctor Milligan, formerly pastor of the First church of this city, will preach tomorrow at the morning and evening services.

The Orange Social.

An orange social is something that has been adopted this winter. Invitations are made on orange colored paper, and each guest must bring an orange as a ticket of admission. Orange crape paper is used in all sorts of curious ways. The candles are of that cheerful hue, and the ices, sherbet and candies are colored and flavored with orange. There is a large tree placed in a prominent position and loaded with fruit. Some of the fruit is natural, but most is made of crape paper, stuffed with cotton, and a tiny gift is hidden in each. If the affair is given for charity, these are sold for a small sum, but the net profit will not be inconsiderable.—New York Tribune.

More People.

Three movings were handled at the freight depot this morning. This is as many as were handled the remainder of the week.

B. Flowers came up from Wellsville, Charles M. Simms from Kittanning and the effects of Charles E. Starr were sent this afternoon to Steubenville.

The Work Is Completed.

The carpenters who have been working at the freight depot for almost a month, completed their work this afternoon and will leave for Wellsville this evening. The work car will be taken there also. The painters will not be through for several weeks.

Plans Coming Next Week.

President Hall, of the Citizens' National bank, said yesterday afternoon that he expected the plans of the new building to be in the city not later than next week. No time will be lost in beginning work after the contract is let.

Won the Case.

Mrs. Phoebe Ellis, of East End, who has been in Treason for some time attending an adjustment of the estate of Edward Ellis, deceased, has returned home. She secured about $300.

WEDDED AT A FAIR.

A California Couple Were Rewarded With Complete Outfits and Tickets to Dawson.

Harry Miller and Fanny Turner were married—as an attraction of the Jubilee fair—in the Mechanics' pavilion, in San Francisco, the other night. Their reward was complete outfits, tickets to Dawson via St. Michael's and $150. From 15,000 to 20,000 persons witnessed the marriage.

The couple were married in the same clothes which they will wear in the regions where they go to search for gold. When it was necessary for the bridegroom to place upon his bride's finger the ring, she had to remove her fur gloves. Miller's costume consisted of boots, fur coat and cape, with pants of some heavy coarse material, while his bride was clad in a thick brown skirt with an equally heavy jacket and a fur lined cape which covered her head. She wore leggings and heavy shoes.

Rev. Frank S. Ford of the Christian church performed the ceremony. When he saluted the bride with a kiss, the great audience cheered.

The platform on which the couple were married was gay with Klondike trappings and wreathed with smilax that culminated in a marriage bell. To heighten the Klondike effect a man in Alaskan costume walked through the crowd on snowshoes, looking for snow. Four beautiful dogs drew a sled that was to carry the bride and bridegroom from the platform to their dressing rooms, but it was too difficult an undertaking to get through the crowd, and the couple had to walk. On the platform was a sled with a camping outfit, and in another corner was a mammoth wedding cake.—New York World.

WOMEN'S BANK ACCOUNTS.

A New York Young Woman Supervises Them For Her Own Sex.

The latest way which women have found of making themselves useful to their own sex and at the same time earning a living takes a severely practical turn. It is teaching bookkeeping and supervising the women's bank accounts. One young woman, looking about for something to do, happened to have taken a course in bookkeeping at a business college, and that was followed by a brief business experience. She thought of imparting her knowledge to her own sex. Women who had bank accounts and liked to have them kept in better order than they were personally equal to were delighted to pay the modest price asked for her services. Incidentally they were able to learn just what they should do, and the young woman has succeeded in gaining a clientele that makes her business highly profitable.

In addition to that branch of her work she teaches bookkeeping to several classes whose members have taken to the new accomplishment as eagerly as if it were a diversion. The tendency of the newer employments that women are seeking is to rid their sisters who have means of nearly all responsibility. To have the trouble of choosing their own dresses has recently been lifted from their shoulders, and now they are able to get somebody to look at their bank-books and tell them just how much money they have. The next invader of the field of relieving women of means from all responsibility will have to undertake the final task of spending their money for them.—New York Sun.

GIFT FOR COLUMBIA.

Full Sized Locomotive Worth $12,000 to Be Owned by the University.

Columbia university is to own as a part of the equipment of the school of mechanical engineering a full sized locomotive worth $12,000. This machine is to run at all speeds in the mechanical laboratory. Professor Frederick R. Hutton of the department of engineering announced this fact for the first time the other afternoon.

Except at Purdue university of Indiana and the Chicago and Northwestern railway shops in Chicago there is nowhere in the world where a full sized passenger engine is in full operation indoors.

The new machine is the gift of the Baldwin Locomotive works of Philadelphia. It is called the Columbia. It was exhibited in the Transportation building at the World's fair in 1893. It has since been in successful operation, having developed very high speed. It will cost at least $3,500 to transport it and put it in place. This amount is to be given by a friend of the university, Professor Hutton says. It will be mounted over a pit in the large mechanical laboratory vault.

The receipt of this engine will raise the total value of the gifts presented this year to the mechanical engineering department of Columbia to over $55,000. Professor Hutton said recently that New York may now boast of the best equipped engineering school in America.—New York World.

Archaeological Find In Mexico.

An important archaeological find is reported about seven leagues southeast of Jajutla, state of Morelos. A priest hunting there recently ran across the ruins of an immense edifice, the remaining portion of one wall being 30 meters long by 7 high. It is built of granite blocks. Inscriptions proving its antiquity were found on the blocks. The priest notified the governor, who went to the scene.

YELLOW FEVER TEST.

A DISCOVERY THAT MAY BE OF GREAT USE.

The Application of the Agglutination Test to the Germ and Its Results—How the Experiment Was Conducted—Some Benefits of This Discovery.

New Orleans medical circles are excited over the discovery of a successful manner of ascertaining whether or not a patient has yellow fever. The discovery was made here in New Orleans by local physicians, and a sufficient number of successful experiments have been made to invest the tests in the minds of physicians with an importance second only to the discovery of a yellow fever preventive.

The whole matter came out at the last meeting of the Orleans Parish Medical society of Jan. 23, which was probably the most important and largely attended of any in the history of that organization. Several valuable papers were read and discussed, chief among which was the paper of Drs. P. E. Archinard, the eminent bacteriologist; R. S. Woodson of the United States army, and John J. Archinard, demonstrator of bacteriology of Tulane university. These gentlemen have for the past three or four months been engaged at work in the laboratory of the state board of health upon the pathology of yellow fever. The most important part of their work has been the application of the agglutination test to the germ of yellow fever.

The "agglutination reaction," as the phenomenon is called, was discovered by a distinguished French scientist. In plain words, it consists of the application of the blood of a suspected case to the germ of typhoid fever. If the blood proves to be from a genuine case, it will kill all the germs and cause them to crowd together in clumps.

The recent outbreak of yellow fever offered to these gentlemen the opportunity to apply this test to numerous cases of yellow fever, and the paper read recently was a report of their valuable work, in which they prove the value of serum diagnosis in yellow fever and cite a great number of cases in which the test was successful. Dr. T. S. Dabney, member of one of the most important committees of the Parish Medical society and who took an important part in the discussion of Dr. Archinard's paper, said the other night that in the tests reported by the doctor 75 per cent of the cases showed what is known as agglutination reaction. In other words, out of every 100 cases examined of supposed yellow fever blood 75 produced agglutination when tested by the yellow fever germ.

Dr. Dabney said that the test experiment was by the method of Dr. Y. Johnson of Montreal and was conducted in this way: A drop of blood is taken from the lobe of the ear of the patient and dissolved in 20 times its volume of sterilized water. The doctor then takes his culture tube bouillon of fever germs and puts the dissolved blood in it. In the culture tube are colonies of yellow fever germs which have been active and increasing for 24 hours. In from five to 30 minutes after the drop of suspected blood dissolved in 20 times its volume is put into the culture tube the germs in the blood become agglutinated, motionless, and motility ceases entirely, which shows that the blood is that of a yellow fever patient. If, however, when the dissolved blood is placed in the culture tube of yellow fever germs they are not affected by the mixture and agglutination does not take place, then it is not yellow fever.

If both typhoid and yellow fever reactions occur, then a clinical history of the case will be necessary to determine whether it is yellow or typhoid fever, unless further experiments reveal it. In the case of plasmanium malaria there is no difficulty in determining, as the malaria microbe is well known, having been described and photographed hundreds of times.

Dr. Dabney was asked what practical good would result to the public from this discovery, especially if it was as successful as it bids fair now to be.

He answered that in the first place it would enable physicians to give a positive diagnosis of seven cases out of every ten. In the second place it would not consume three days or more, as is often necessary in the clinical diagnosis of a case of yellow fever.

"For instance," said he, "suppose that the fever should occur at Ocean Springs, as it did last fall. Under this system of experiment there could be no possible doubt of the character of the disease, and it would not require at the very most over 24 hours. The reason of this is that the culture tube bouillon for a new test is replenished with new bouillon, and the yellow fever germs, being allowed to increase for 24 hours, are more active, healthful and energetic and consequently better suited for the test."

Tests have been made by this method for malarial reaction, typhoid reaction and yellow fever reaction. No test has been made yet as regards dengue fever, for the simple reason that there has been no dengue to test. The serum used has been in part sent from Dr. Saranelli in South America and in part from serum taken from the isolation hospital of the cases there during the late fever.

The results from tests made from the New Orleans serum have been fully as satisfactory as those made from the serum furnished by Dr. Saranelli. Dr. Dabney regards it as a wonderful discovery and says that Drs. Archinard and Woodson should have full credit for their investigation and tireless industry in the matter. He says the most hopeful part of it is that these investigations may lead to something better, and that in the case of yellow fever, as in smallpox, a preventive may thus be discovered.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

NATIONAL HOCKEY LEAGUE.

Bartow S. Weeks Will Try to Organize Such an Association.

Hockey is a sport which is apparently growing in popularity with the public. Bartow S. Weeks of the New York Athletic club has watched its progress with much interest, and he thinks that the time is ripe for the organization of a national league. The game is decidedly popular in Canada, where it has reached a stage of perfection that Americans are trying hard to attain, as was evidenced by the close score recently between the Shamrocks of Montreal and the New York Hockey club. Mr. Weeks has decided to visit Baltimore and Philadelphia for the purpose of securing the cooperation of the various clubs in those cities toward the organization of a league. He thinks there will be no trouble in getting hearty support from those sources, and afterward other cities may be induced to join or will do so voluntarily.

BARTOW S. WEEKS.

When it was suggested to Mr. Weeks that instead of goal posts a cage should be provided in which the rubber would have to be sent in order that a goal might be scored, he replied that he had been considering the matter of late. The conclusion he had reached was that a cage would improve the game, but not, however, such a cage as is used in the two New England roller polo leagues, which, he thought, would take up too much space.

Following out this plan a cage made of netting instead of wire, with three posts and a crossbar in front and triangular in shape, will be tried, and if it proves satisfactory will then be used by all the clubs. By making it triangular in shape Mr. Weeks thinks that it will allow all the fine playing necessary behind the goal and besides prevent any fluke goals being made by reason of the rubber being knocked the wrong way between the posts, only to be sent back from the front for a goal. With a cage the rubber would have to be taken out either to the side or in front of it in order that a point might be scored.—New York Herald.

"AT LAST!" SAID GEN. LEE.

A Sailor's Account of the Maine's Entrance to Havana Harbor.

Harry Andrews, carriage painter of Reading, Pa., recently received a letter from his brother, Frank Andrews, aged 26, who was a seaman on board the Maine for the past three years. Mr. Andrews' letter, dated at Havana, gives a description of the way the United States warship entered Havana fully prepared for action should she have been fired on.

"When the Maine received orders to go to Havana," Andrews writes, "we saw that all our guns were in good order. Cylinders were filled, shot and shell broken out and the decks almost cleared for action. Everything was ready for business, and we turned in for a couple of hours' sleep. We sighted Cuba at daylight, and all hands were soon on deck. We had heard the Spaniards would fire on us, so we were prepared to return it with interest.

"Our orders were to enter Havana, and it had to be done, so there was no half way about anything on this outfit. As we steamed in under the guns of Morro castle we calculated how long it would take us to silence it. Our turret guns' crews were standing at their guns under the turrets, out of sight of course, while the rest of the crew was lounging around the deck, but at the first shot from the Spanish they would have soon found their places, and we could have shown them one of the neatest Yankee tricks that was ever played.

"However, nothing happened, and we steamed in and moved to a buoy. We kept the ship ready for action until United States Consul General Lee came on board. He looked proud and, planking his foot down on the deck, exclaimed:

"At last!"

"We still kept our ammunition ready and stood night watches ready for business at a moment's notice." Andrews says there were a number of Pennsylvania boys on the Maine.—New York Sun.

Medical Women.

An international congress of medical women is to meet in London this year. This is remarkable considering the fact that it is only about 50 years since the fair sex broke into that profession in search of a career and fortune.—New York Evening Sun.

WILL BEGIN NEXT WEEK

Preparing For Work on the Bridgewater Plant.

NO DELAY WILL BE ALLOWED

It Will Be Pushed Through as Rapidly as Possible—The Product Will Be Sufficient to Keep the City Well Heated and Lighted All the Time.

It is expected that work on the plant
to be erected by the Bridgewater Gas company in East End will begin early next week.

The plans have all been drawn, the buildings staked out and preliminaries completed. It was thought that a force would be here this week, but the delay
was unavoidable, and the matter allowed to go over. When the work is once started it will be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible as the officers of the company are anxious to be in the market with a strong pressure of gas in a few months. The building and the remainder of the plant will be complete, the plans providing for everything required to give enough gas to provide Liverpool and Wellsville. President Greene, it is said, has personally looked after the system adopted, and knows it will fill the requirements of the company in these places.

AXLINE DENIES

That He Has Received or Given Unusual Orders.

Says the Columbus Journal of yesterday:

"The sensational reports in various parts of the state that orders have been sent from general headquarters to the different organizations of the National Guard, to fill out their quotas and prepare for an early call to arms, was pronounced wholly unfounded by Adjutant General Axline. No such orders have been sent out and no communication has been received from the war department
directing that any such action be taken.
"Whatever has been done by the commanders of the various regiments and companies has been entirely on their own responsibility. It is understood that men have been enlisted conditionally upon their being need of their services."

Knows a Good Thing.

The Palestine Reveille Echo says editorially:

"The EVENING NEWS REVIEW, of East Liverpool, informs its readers in a column article that it is a first-class paper. The announcement is wholly superfluous so far as this office is concerned, as we consider it one of the very best that comes to us, and there is not one among them all that we take any greater pleasure in reading than the old reliable NEWS REVIEW. It stands in the front rank, and has our best wishes to stay there."

The Country Is Safe.

The war scare has developed that the average paragrapher does not view the situation as being too serious to allow his usual joke. Here is what the Pittsburg Chronicle Telegraph has to say of a gentleman well known and highly esteemed in this city:

"As Rev. Frank DeWitt Talmage has announced his readiness to resign his pulpit and start for the front, the populace realizes that the country is safe."

No More Answers.

Cherk Hanley has received no further answers in regard to the queries sent out by him in regard to the best way of improving roads, and it is possible the committee will meet early next week to take action and make arrangements for their trip, as the time for submitting the question to the people is drawing near.

Seventh Street Complains Again.

Seventh street residents are complaining because they have not had their street cleaned by the city force for over two months. The people are now wondering whether the street is still in the city or whether they should apply to the township trustees and have a road
supervisor clean the street.

They Wanted Work.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Lesson For the Week Beginning Feb. 27.
Comment by Rev. W. J. Yates, A. M.
Topic, Temperate In All Things.

SCRIPTURE READING.—I Cor. ix, 25.
All intoxicating liquors are forbidden
men training for the prize ring or college athletics, whether baseball, football
or rowing. Still more, the diet is regulated as to quantity, quality and time of eating. Moderation is to be observed, and reason, not appetite rules. It is well recognized that scrupulous care is needed to keep the body in proper condition for the best literary work or intellectual exercise of any kind.

If this is true as far as matters of mind are concerned, how much more need there is of caution when the interests of the more delicate spiritual nature are involved?

Gluttony is directly antagonistic to piety. Drunkenness not only wrecks body and mind, but it ruins the soul.
The body is the most marvelous piece of mechanism known. No apparatus devised by man compares in minuteness of parts and delicate adjustment with it.
Its processes are marvelous in complexity, and their connection with thought and will and feelings are more mysterious than all the philosophies have been able to unravel.

This, however, is known, that the well being of the soul, its development
in righteousness and purity, is inseparable, bound up with the activities of the body. Filthiness of body never helped purity of heart. Sickness is not the best road to saintliness. Health, robust and vigorous physique, is a direct assistance to well doing and right feeling. Bodily appetites are to be ruled over by a sound mind, and the right thinking is to be directed by a consecrated will and heart
in the service of God.

Wrong in any part, whether body,
mind or spirit, reacts on all parts and
throws them out of proper adjustment.
Anger quickens the action of the heart
and may cause death under certain circumstances. It is fatal to soul life always. Indulgence of bodily cravings in improper ways and in undue degree develops their demands beyond control,
weakens the hold of mind over the body
and unfits it for the use of the soul.

I WANT

That is the turning point of life. Not the longings, the dreaming, the feelings and wishing, but the choosing, is what shapes the course of destiny. The will is the rudder of life. Too much mistake is made here. Religion has appeared to be rested too much on the feelings and the understanding. Emphasis has been placed on what is believed. "What is your creed?" has been the test of piety with many. "How do you feel?" has been the all important question with others. The real test of character lies in "What will you do?" Determination decides destiny. There must be an adequate basis of knowledge. One must know the right that should be done.
Then comes choice for or against that right. I will, or I will not, which shall it be? It matters not how I feel. All past action and association may have co-operated to make the doing of right and duty distasteful and difficult. All future prospects may promise hardship and persecution. All allurements may beckon the way of the wrong. If I know it to be wrong, no seductiveness of pleasure promised can render it other than evil, I must say no. No contempt of others can be so bitter as self contempt. No lash of enmity can equal the sting of one's own outraged soul. I ought; therefore I will. That settles it for me for all time. I am king, and the king shall rule his own. In exile and obscurity, unknown or only known to be hated, but in consciousness of integrity, knowing one's kingliness, all can be borne and patiently waited for, the day shall dawn when the king shall come to his own.

Personal Influence.

The secret of the influence some people possess over others is most difficult to discover. Some who lack personal beauty of face and form, who have neither education nor culture of society, possessing neither wealth nor brilliant conversational powers, destitute, in fact, of all the ordinary elements of popularity, still seem to have wonderful influence over other people. Perhaps the unaffected interest they manifest in others' welfare,
the genuine goodness of soul and transparency of motive are the chief factors in their success. True it is that if we would benefit others we must forget self. No niggardly scrimping of sympathy and care for personal comfort ever ruled in the heart of one who became largely helpful to others. There is no way of winning others except by the complete giving of self first, unreservedly and without bargain. Even Christ could save no man till He had given His own life for the lost.

If you want to save some one, do a little dying for him. Die unto self and live for him, and you stand a chance to win him.

Conventions For 1898.

The biennial conference of the first general district will be held in the early part of July. The Epworth League union of Springfield, Mass., has requested that it be held in their city. Several other places have been mentioned, but
as it has never been held in that place
and as Springfield is very favorably located, being a easy access by railroad

from all parts of New England, it is probable that the cabinet will accept the invitation.

Vermont is to have a state convention
June 21-3 in Burlington. Before this the forces of the League have been separated by the mountains, and two conventions have been held, one east and the other west of the range. This has been largely due to the fact that the state is divided between the Vermont and Troy conferences. Nov. 1, 1897, a joint commission from the Leagues of the two conferences met in Montpelier
and arranged for the union convention in June.

LIVE LOBSTER STORY.

Experience of a Real Estate Agent While Bringing Some Home.

A Pittsburg real estate agent who lives in the east end celebrated his birthday recently. He's proud of the fact that he was born in the same month
as Washington and Lincoln. So he celebrated accordingly. His wife had expressed a desire the other morning for lobster; not the common canned stuff
but live lobster, the real thing. In spite of the day's exhilaration the vender of town lots remembered this, and before starting for home bought two of the finest wide spreading crustaceans that ever came out of the Atlantic. To insure their arrival in good condition, he had them put in a large market basket,
half filled with ice, and covered them with a piece of paper. As soon as he got on a Fifth avenue car the trouble began.
Those lobsters grew tired of their seclusion and began to get in touch with their surroundings. The car was crowded and their owner had to stand.

Suddenly a sharp faced spinster
started the car with screams of "Help!
Pickpockets! Police!" at the same time clutching the real estate man's arm.
"Conductor, have this man arrested!
Search him! He tried to pick my pocket!"
she exclaimed.

Everybody looked at the supposed culprit and then those nearest the pair burst into laughter. One of the lobsters was still tugging at the lady's dress.—

TEMPLE OF SCIENCE.

Mrs. Martin to Build One For the Benefit of Future Generations.

Mrs. Victoria Claffin Woodhull Martin, whose career has been interesting England and the United States for

York, according to her agent in that city, to work for humanity, whatever that may mean. Since the death of her husband a year ago Mrs. Martin has enjoyed a large income, and her projects

for humanity will not be hampered now
by a lack of money, unless they are executed on an unusually expensive scale.

Her agent says that she may establish somewhere in the United States a temple of science, over which she will preside, for the benefit of future generations. Mrs. Martin has been credited with some very frank opinions on subjects that have been discussed by Annie Besant, and her agent announces that in the proposed "temple of science" she will teach "such methods of humanitarian government as shall fit future generations to combat successfully and overcome the financial, mental, moral and physical obstacles that now retard their progress."—New York Sun.

JAPANESE COLONIZATION.

One Hundred Thousand Acres Have Been Bought In Southern Mexico.

Among the passengers who arrived on the steamer Gaelic at San Francisco
were M. Kobayashi and H. Kawamura of Tokyo, who are on their way to Mexico to further the interests of a colossal Japanese colonization project. The first named gentleman said that preparations are being made for the establishment of a Japanese colony on a big tract of land adjacent to the port of San Benito and contiguous to the Guatemalan boundary.
In accordance with a treaty between the Japanese and Mexican governments,

ratified last year, Count Enomoto, ex-minister of agriculture and a wealthy Japanese landowner, purchased 100,000 acres of land in Mexico in the locality
described, and it is on this that the Japanese colony is to be established. The enterprise is receiving the support of the Japanese government.

It is the purpose of the two visitors
to have the land surveyed and laid out for the colonists, and this will be done
as quickly as possible. The entire acreage, they declare, will be devoted to the cultivation of coffee. It is also planned to establish a line of steamers between San Francisco and Acapulco to connect with the Japanese Transpacific line.—Philadelphia Press.

WILL BEGIN NEXT WEEK

Preparing For Work on the Bridgewater Plant.

NO DELAY WILL BE ALLOWED

It Will Be Pushed Through as Rapidly as Possible—The Product Will Be Sufficient to Keep the City Well Heated and Lighted All the Time.

It is expected that work on the plant to be erected by the Bridgewater Gas company in East End will begin early next week.

The plans have all been drawn, the buildings staked out and preliminaries completed. It was thought that a force would be here this week, but the delay was unavoidable, and the matter allowed to go over. When the work is once started it will be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible as the officers of the company are anxious to be in the market with a strong pressure of gas in a few months. The building and the remainder of the plant will be complete, the plans providing for everything required to give enough gas to provide Liverpool and Wellsville. President Greene, it is said, has personally looked after the system adopted, and knows it will fill the requirements of the company in these places.

AXLINE DENIES

That He Has Received or Given Unusual Orders.

Says the Columbus Journal of yesterday:

"The sensational reports in various parts of the state that orders have been sent from general headquarters to the different organizations of the National Guard, to fill out their quotas and prepare for an early call to arms, was pronounced wholly unfounded by Adjutant General Axline. No such orders have been sent out and no communication has been received from the war department directing that any such action be taken. "Whatever has been done by the commanders of the various regiments and companies has been entirely on their own responsibility. It is understood that men have been enlisted conditionally upon their being need of their services."

Knows a Good Thing.

The Palestine Reveille Echo says editorially:

"The EVENING NEWS REVIEW, of East Liverpool, informs its readers in a column article that it is a first-class paper. The announcement is wholly superfluous so far as this office is concerned, as we consider it one of the very best that comes to us, and there is not one among them all that we take any greater pleasure in reading than the old reliable NEWS REVIEW. It stands in the front rank, and has our best wishes to stay there."

The Country Is Safe.

The war scare has developed that the average paragrapher does not view the situation as being too serious to allow his usual joke. Here is what the Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph has to say of a gentleman well known and highly esteemed in this city:

"As Rev. Frank DeWitt Talmage has announced his readiness to resign his pulpit and start for the front, the populace realizes that the country is safe."

No More Answers.

Cherk Hanley has received no further answers in regard to the queries sent out by him in regard to the best way of improving roads, and it is possible the committee will meet early next week to take action and make arrangements for their trip, as the time for submitting the question to the people is drawing near.

Seventh Street Complains Again.

Seventh street residents are complaining because they have not had their street cleaned by the city force for over two months. The people are now wondering whether the street is still in the city or whether they should apply to the township trustees and have a road supervisor clean the street.

They Wanted Work.

A few days ago an item appeared in the NEWS REVIEW to the effect that a down town pottery had resumed operations. The next day the manager of the plant had applications for positions from no less than a dozen people.

Bought Some Ware.

Harold F. Barnes, a crockery buyer from Peoria, Ill., was in the city yesterday. He placed a number of orders, and left for the east in the evening.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Lesson For the Week Beginning Feb. 27.
Comment by Rev. W. J. Yates, A. M.

SCRIPTURE READING.—I Cor. ix, 25.

All intoxicating liquors are forbidden men training for the prize ring or college athletics, whether baseball, football or rowing. Still more, the diet is regulated as to quantity, quality and time of eating. Moderation is to be observed, and reason, not appetite rules. It is well recognized that scrupulous care is needed to keep the body in proper condition for the best literary work or intellectual exercise of any kind.

If this is true as far as matters of mind are concerned, how much more need there is of caution when the interests of the more delicate spiritual nature are involved?

Gluttony is directly antagonistic to piety. Drunkenness not only wrecks body and mind, but it ruins the soul. The body is the most marvelous piece of mechanism known. No apparatus devised by man compares in minuteness of parts and delicate adjustment with it. Its processes are marvelous in complexity, and their connection with thought and will and feelings are more mysterious than all the philosophies have been able to unravel.

This, however, is known, that the well being of the soul, its development in righteousness and purity, is inseparable, bound up with the activities of the body. Filthiness of body never helped purity of heart. Sickness is not the best road to saintliness. Health, robust and vigorous physique, is a direct assistance to well doing and right feeling. Bodily appetites are to be ruled over by a sound mind, and the right thinking is to be directed by a consecrated will and heart in the service of God.

Wrong in any part, whether body, mind or spirit, reacts on all parts and throws them out of proper adjustment. Anger quickens the action of the heart and may cause death under certain circumstances. It is fatal to soul life always. Indulgence of bodily cravings in improper ways and in undue degree develops their demands beyond control, weakens the hold of mind over the body and unfits it for the use of the soul.

I Will

That is the turning point of life. Not the longings, the dreaming, the feelings and wishing, but the choosing, is what shapes the course of destiny. The will is the rudder of life. Too much mistake is made here. Religion has appeared to be rested too much on the feelings and the understanding. Emphasis has been placed on what is believed. "What is your creed?" has been the test of piety with many. "How do you feel?" has been the all important question with others. The real test of character lies in "What will you do?" Determination decides destiny. There must be an adequate basis of knowledge. One must know the right that should be done. Then comes choice for or against that right. I will, or I will not, which shall it be? It matters not how I feel. All past action and association may have co-operated to make the doing of right and duty distasteful and difficult. All future prospects may promise hardship and persecution. All allurements may beckon the way of the wrong. If I know it to be wrong, no seductiveness of pleasure promised can render it other than evil, I must say no. No contempt of others can be so bitter as self contempt. No lash of enmity can equal the sting of one's own outraged soul. I ought; therefore I will. That settles it for me for all time. I am king, and the king shall rule his own. In exile and obscurity, unknown or only known to be hated, but in consciousness of integrity, knowing one's kingliness, all can be borne and patiently waited for, the day shall dawn when the king shall come to his own.

Personal Influence.

The secret of the influence some people possess over others is most difficult to discover. Some who lack personal beauty of face and form, who have neither education nor culture of society, possessing neither wealth nor brilliant conversational powers, destitute, in fact, of all the ordinary elements of popularity, still seem to have wonderful influence over other people. Perhaps the unaffected interest they manifest in others' welfare, the genuine goodness of soul and transparency of motive are the chief factors in their success. True it is that if we would benefit others we must forget self. No niggardly scrimping of sympathy and care for personal comfort ever ruled in the heart of one who became largely helpful to others. There is no way of winning others except by the complete giving of self first, unreservedly and without bargain. Even Christ could save no man till He had given His own life for the lost.

If you want to save some one, do a little dying for him. Die unto self and live for him, and you stand a chance to win him.

Conventions For 1898.

The biennial conference of the first general district will be held in the early part of July. The Epworth League union of Springfield, Mass., has requested that it be held in their city. Several other places have been mentioned, but as it has never been held in that place and as Springfield is very favorably located, being easily reached by railroad, from all parts of New England, it is probable that the cabinet will accept the invitation.

Vermont is to have a state convention June 21-3 in Burlington. Before this the forces of the League have been separated by the mountains, and two conventions have been held, one east and the other west of the range. This has been largely due to the fact that the state is divided between the Vermont and Troy conferences. Nov. 1, 1897, a joint commission from the Leagues of the two conferences met in Montpelier and arranged for the union convention in June.

LIVE LOBSTER STORY.

Experience of a Real Estate Agent While Bringing Some Home.

A Pittsburg real estate agent who lives in the east end celebrated his birthday recently. He's proud of the fact that he was born in the same month as Washington and Lincoln. So he celebrated accordingly. His wife had expressed a desire the other morning for lobster; not the common canned stuff, but live lobster, the real thing. In spite of the day's exhilaration the vendor of town lots remembered this, and before starting for home bought two of the finest wide spreading crustaceans that ever came out of the Atlantic. To insure their arrival in good condition, he had them put in a large market basket, half filled with ice, and covered them with a piece of paper. As soon as he got on a Fifth avenue car the trouble began. Those lobsters grew tired of their seclusion and began to get in touch with their surroundings. The car was crowded and their owner had to stand.

Suddenly a sharp faced spinster startled the car with screams of "Help! Pickpockets! Police!" at the same time clutching the real estate man's arm. "Conductor, have this man arrested! Search him! He tried to pick my pocket!" she exclaimed.

Everybody looked at the supposed culprit and then those nearest the pair burst into laughter. One of the lobsters was still tugging at the lady's dress.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

TEMPLE OF SCIENCE.

Mrs. Martin to Build One For the Benefit of Future Generations.

Mrs. Victoria Clafin Woodhull Martin, whose career has been interesting England and the United States for many years, is on her way to New York, according to her agent in that city, to work for humanity, whatever that may mean. Since the death of her husband a year ago Mrs. Martin has enjoyed a large income, and her projects for humanity will not be hampered now by a lack of money, unless they are executed on an unusually expensive scale.

Her agent says that she may establish somewhere in the United States a temple of science, over which she will preside, for the benefit of future generations. Mrs. Martin has been credited with some very frank opinions on subjects that have been discussed by Annie Besant, and her agent announces that in the proposed "temple of science" she will teach "such methods of humanitarian government as shall fit future generations to combat successfully and overcome the financial, mental, moral and physical obstacles that now retard their progress."—New York Sun.

JAPANESE COLONIZATION.

One Hundred Thousand Acres Have Been Bought in Southern Mexico.

Among the passengers who arrived on the steamer Gaelic at San Francisco were M. Kobayashi and H. Kawamura of Tokyo, who are on their way to Mexico to further the interests of a colossal Japanese colonization project. The first named gentleman said that preparations are being made for the establishment of a Japanese colony on a big tract of land adjacent to the port of San Benito and contiguous to the Guatemalan boundary. In accordance with a treaty between the Japanese and Mexican governments, ratified last year, Count Enomoto, ex-minister of agriculture and a wealthy Japanese landowner, purchased 100,000 acres of land in Mexico in the locality described, and it is on this that the Japanese colony is to be established. The enterprise is receiving the support of the Japanese government.

It is the purpose of the two visitors to have the land surveyed and laid out for the colonists, and this will be done as quickly as possible. The entire acreage, they declare, will be devoted to the cultivation of coffee. It is also planned to establish a line of steamers between San Francisco and Acapulco to connect with the Japanese Transpacific line.—Philadelphia Press.

Thorns to Sit Upon.

Many people gather thorns by failing to heed the warning sent out by diseased kidneys, coated tongue, parched skin, feverishness, dull dragging pain, general feeling of weariness, is sure evidence of kidney and bladder trouble. Take Utah Kidney Beans at once, they will cure you; they have cured thousands of others. THE TURNERS OF PHILADELPHIA make Utah Kidney Beans.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

The street force are this afternoon cleaning crossings.

Miss Ada Dennis is able to be out after a severe attack of quinsy.

A number of people from this place will go south on the Virginia tonight.

Moses Bennett, of Seventh street, will move to Gardendale the early part of next week.

Engineer Kelly is in Wellsville today running levels for the Wellsville Porcelain company.

Bishop Leonard will confirm a class of 40 candidates at St. Stephen's Episcopal church tomorrow evening.

The Women's Relief corps spent yesterday afternoon quilting, after which an appetizing lunch was served.

The differences at the East End pottery have been adjusted, and the decorators have returned to work.

Rev. O. S. Reed left today for Barnesville, where he will tomorrow occupy the pulpit of the Christian church.

Professor Rayman returned home this morning from Chattanooga, where he attended a meeting of school superintendents.

Jacob Baker, of Akron, who has been spending several days in the city will return home Monday. He is connected with a pottery in that place.

Jason, the 9-year-old son of W. L. Smith, of McKinnon addition, who has been ill with typhoid fever for some time, was much worse last night.

Miss Allie Williams entertained friends at her home on Third street last evening. A very pleasant time was had. A number were present from Wellsville.

William Huff last evening occupied the pulpit of the African Methodist Episcopal church, Wellsville, and delivered a very interesting address.

The funeral of Miss Pease, who died yesterday, will take place from the First M. E. church tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, instead of in the morning, as was announced.

Postmaster Miskall said last evening that the mails, both to and from this office, have been much smaller than usual. The six o'clock collections show a slight decrease also.

The household effects of John Robinson are expected at the freight depot next week. They will be shipped from Kokomo. The effects of Thomas Croxal are also coming this way.

Brakeman W. M. Gibson, who is on the Pittsburg and Wellsville run of the early accommodation train, is very ill at his home in Wellsville. Brakeman Hunter is now filling his place.

The Democrats will elect all their delegates and prepare to put a full municipal ticket in the field, but will make no nominations until the result of the Republican primaries is known.

The stone work at the Wellsville Porcelain works will be commenced next week. The deed for their additional property has arrived from Texas, and will be transferred in a few days.

Mrs. R. L. Potts, of Gardendale, who was in Ford City attending the marriage of her sister, Miss Nellie L. Anderson, to Mr. Daniel Fults, returned home last evening. Mr. and Mrs. Fults are well known in this city.

Miss Bessie Faulk, who has been spending several days with relatives in Lisbon, returned home last evening. The child is but eight years old and came home under the care of Officers Finley and Terrence.

The revival meetings that are being held at the First U. P. church are largely attended, and much interest is being shown. Reverend Taggart is being assisted by Reverend Crawford, of Beaver.

Patrick and Willie Costello will next week be sentenced to probate court, where they will probably be sent to the reform school by Probate Judge Boone. The complaint was made against them by Truant Officer Beardmore, and it was impossible to get them to attend school here.

Dispatches from New York state that the Pennsylvania railroad will likely absorb the Panhandle lines and the entire system will be operated by one management. It is said that there has been for months past a steady and effective absorption of both common and preferred stock and a complete consolidation is only a matter of time.

MAINE SINKING IN THE MUD.

Divers Examined More in Detail by the Naval Board.

HAVANA, Feb. 26.—The wreck of the Maine is slowly but surely sinking in the mud. Before the hull could be raised it would be necessary to remove the guns and deck debris. For lack of proper appliances practically nothing in this line has been accomplished. Aside from the officers and cabin effects the salvage thus far has been pitifully small. The cloudy weather and rain has made the work of the divers unsatisfactory and very little was done. It is said that a hole has been made by the divers in one of the forward hatches, and it is hoped that a number of bodies will be recovered.

The court of inquiry sat longer than usual, the six divers being examined more in detail than heretofore. The time of the departure of the Mangrove with the court for Key West has not been determined. Captain Sampson said that it was doubtful whether his vessel would sail today, that all depended upon the developments of the testimony.

The Spanish cruiser Alfonso XII has been towed to a buoy further within the harbor to make room for the cruiser Vizcaya, which is expected here today or tomorrow from the north.

HE PRAYED FOR PEACE.

The Blind Chaplain's Opening Invocation In the House.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—The blind chaplain of the house prayed for peace at the opening of the session.

"Oh Thou Almighty," he prayed, "strong to deliver and ever wise in thy counsels, hear our prayer. Keep us, we beseech thee, in the midst of all excitement, calm and deliberate; and deliver us from unnecessary anxiety and care and from vain boastings, so that if the time should come, and we pray that it may not, we may be strong to maintain our rights and uphold the dignity of thy nation. Bless, we beseech thee, the president of the United States and all his counselors, the congress and all others in authority so that righteousness and peace and honor may be ours."

THE CABINET MEETING.

The Maine Disaster Talked of, but No Action Taken.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—The first full meeting of the cabinet in some weeks has been held, both Secretaries Alger and Sherman, who have been sick, being present. The cabinet talked about the Maine disaster at some length as a current topic of vital interest, but no action made. No intimation, it was stated, has yet come from the court of inquiry as to how long it will be occupied with its work and consequently no conclusion can be reached as to when its report will be available.

The situation otherwise, it was stated, is unchanged and after the cabinet meeting it was announced that there was no news at the state or navy departments that added anything to the situation.

SHOULD BE SLOW TO ACT.

Bryan Says We Should Await Result of Maine Explosion.

TOPEKA, Feb. 26.—William J. Bryan has been interviewed concerning the Maine:

"In my opinion, we should be slow to act in the Maine affair especially under the trying circumstances which confront us," he said. "Another fact in my mind impels us to exercise discretion is that the official investigation of the explosion is now being made. The United States cannot afford to be too hasty in this matter. International questions are involved and it would be a sad compliment to our government were we to openly and maliciously bring about strained relations by our anxiety to locate the responsibility for the Maine disaster. Nothing should be done until the investigation is completed."

NO RIVER AND HARBOR BILL.

This Admitted In a House Debate—An Attack on Dingley.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—A long and somewhat exciting debate over the question of river and harbor appropriations, was precipitated in the house during the consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill. It was practically agreed by all those who participated that there would be no river and harbor bill at this session of congress, and this led Mr. Moody to attack the contract items carried in the sundry civil bill.

He selected an appropriation of $350,000 for Rockland, Me., which is in Mr. Dingley's district, and his remark in denunciation of what he termed favoritism approached the sensational. Mr. Dingley denied that he had ever suggested the appropriation to the committee on appropriations, or to any individual members of the committee.

Ten People Perished.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Feb. 26.—Ten people burned to death here in a tenement house fire.

PITH OF THE NEWS.

Some of the Happenings of the Whole World Given Briefly.

CHICAGO—Sunday, March 20, is Miss Willard memorial day.

NEW YORK—The tank steamer Bremerhaven passed a ship supposed to be overdue, La Champagne, moving slowly but having out no signs of distress.

SAN FRANCISCO—Tom Ryan knocked Green out in eighteenth round.

NEW YORK—About $2,000,000 in gold was shipped from Europe bound here.

THE CONNELLY GAS REGULATOR is metallic throughout, to sliding or rubbing contact of metals, or parts at any point. This eliminates all friction, insures accurate and reliable regulation of pressure and prevents wear. It will hold your gas fires to the exact point you set them at all hours during day or night. Your incandescent burners will give a much better light and the mantles will last twice as long with accurately regulated pressure. All waste of gas due to excessive or variation of pressure is prevented by this regulator, whether used for light or heat, and on all kinds of burners or heating appliances. We can submit hundreds of testimonials in support of every point claimed for this regulator. Catalogue on application.
